CEILINGS ARE SET IN MEAT SALE PRICES

CONDITIONS GIVEN FOR POINT VALUE REDUCTIONS

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Washington, April 5. (AP)—OPA tightened its controls over meat today by setting retail cents-per-pound ceiling prices, effective April 15, for beef, veal, lamb and mutton, and forbidding stores to reduce point values of any rationed meats and fats without also cutting prices.

The two actions are designed, officials said, to eliminate confusion arising from store-by-store variations in ceilings, help stamp out black markets in meat, and guard against abuse of the privilege stores have of reducing point values in order to sell perishable rationed items.

Break For Consumer

They predicted the new ceilings will mean "in most cases less than the prices which consumers have been paying recently."

Heretofore, ceilings on beef, veal, lamb and mutton for each store have been the highest prices it charged in March, 1942. Today's order divides the country into 12 regions and fixes uniform ceilings in each except that small independent stores are allowed to charge one to three cents a pound more for various cuts than are the bigger outlets. The higher prices may be charged only by stores which did no more than $250,000 worth of business last year.

This price differential is intended to preserve the historical price relationship between smaller stores and the larger ones able to hold down unit costs by volume sales.

Similar, dollar-and-cents prices for pork were established April 1, and the regional zones outlined in today's order are the same as for pork except that the mid-western 4 and 4-A zones are combined.

May Avoid Spoilage

The order on "point sales" directs that any retailer reducing point values must reduce the price at least 25 per cent under the established ceiling. If point values are cut more than 25 per cent, a corresponding percentage reduction must be made in the price but it need not, in any case, be reduced more than 50 per cent.

Since it is the usual practice to reduce prices when items must be sold quickly to avoid spoilage, OPA said, the regulation should work no hardship on retailers who, in good faith, avail themselves of the point-lowering privilege.

Altogether, 102 different cuts of beef, veal, lamb and mutton are covered by the price ceiling order. Price variations are set forth, too, for five grades of beef, four of lamb and three of mutton.

Not included under the new price ceilings are sausage, canned meat and variety meats (livers, brains, kidneys, etc.), but ceilings are being worked out for them. A separate price list also is to be issued for kosher-killed meat.

SAMPLES LISTED

Washington, April 5, (AP)—To explain its new standardized retail prices for beef, veal, lamb and mutton, effective April 15, OPA today issued the following sample prices of the scheduled costs of some of the popular cuts:

(Prices quoted are cents per pound based on "good" grade of federal meat inspectors or corresponding OPA grade "A")

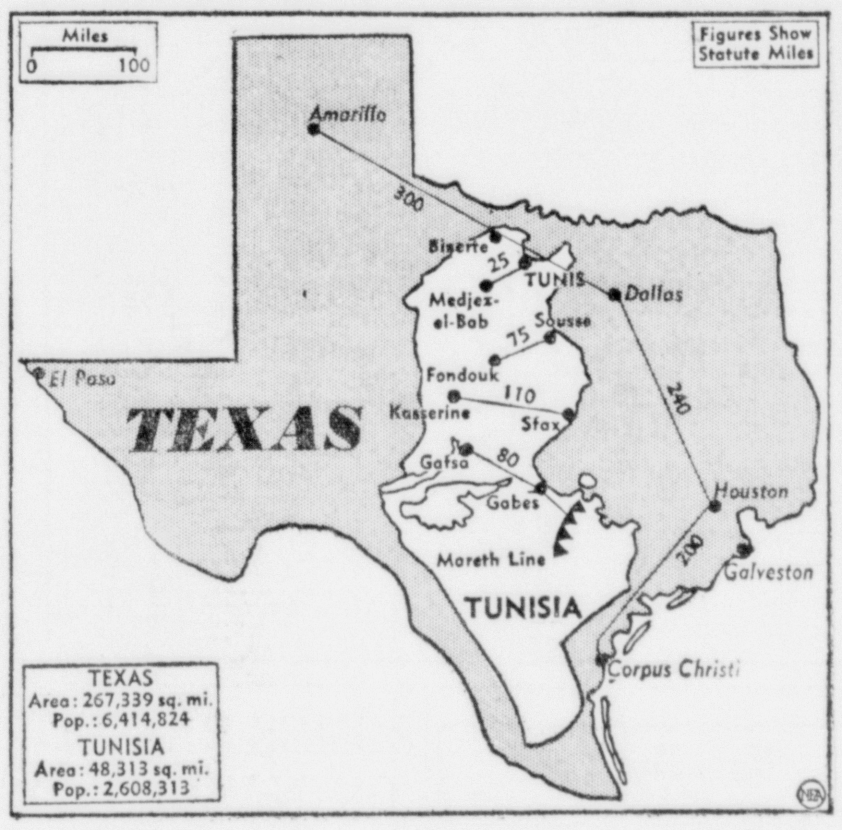
Tunisia In Texas



A comparison of Tunisia with Texas shows how small the North African battle area really is. Our biggest state is six times as large as Tunisia in area and nearly three times as big in population. The actual battle area along the Tunisia coast covers only 15,000 square miles.

Partial Return To Gold Standard Proposed To Avert Post-War Chaos

BY GEORGE CULLEN

Washington, April 5, (AP)—Asserting the treasury is "deeply concerned with the threat of international monetary chaos at the end of the war," Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today comprehensive administration plans to stabilize post-war currencies and fix their value in terms of gold.

The administration program, which the secretary emphasized is purely tentative, was outlined to an extraordinary closed session of the senate committees on foreign relations, banking and currency, and post war economy and planning. It involves these major points.

1. Creation of an international stabilization fund by the United Nations and their associates (a senator who heard Morgenthau said he understood the fund would have a capital of $5,000,000,000).

2. Fixing the value of currencies in terms of gold.

3. An agreement among participating nations not to devalue their currencies without consulting other members of the stabilization funds. This would be similiar to the tripartite agreement signed by Great Britain, France and the United States in 1936.

Although his appearance before the senate committees was in executive session, Morgenthau later told his press conference that he would make public tomorrow the complete draft of the treasury's tentative proposals. They have been submitted to representatives of 34 nations invited here for conferences.

The treasury proposals were reported to include provision for a new world currency unit to be known as "Unitas." Treasury officials said the "Unitas" would merely be used as a bookkeeping unit by the stabilization fund and would have a gold-backed value of $10.

Morgenthau appeared annoyed that a "leak" on the proposals had developed in London, and expressed belief this premature disclosure originated among the governments in exile to whom the treasury plan was submitted, and not in official British circles.

The secretary told the senate committees today that America should begin now to devise an international monetary agency because "the completion of such a task is certain to take many months" and because development of a post-war stabilization plan may be a factor in winning the war.

BOLIVIA READY TO FIGHT AXIS

State Of War Decree Timed For Arrival Of Wallace

La Paz, Bolivia, April 5 (AP)—Bolivia's national defense council asked President Enrique Penaranda to decree a state of war with the Axis powers, timing the announcement of the step with the arrival of U. S. Vice-President Henry A. Wallace from Arequipa, Peru, on his good-neighbor tour.

The Bolivian foreign minister said Penaranda was expected to sign the decree very soon, but that ceremonies occasioned by Wallace's visit probably would delay a cabinet meeting until tomorrow or Wednesday. After Penaranda signs, the decree must be approved by congress.

Bolivia broke relations with the Axis after the meeting of the Pan-American foreign ministers last year at Rio de Janeiro, and if the step is approved would become the second South American nation to go actively to war. Brazil is a warrior partner of the United Nations, but is not at war with Japan.

Wallace was given an enthusiastic reception by cheering thousands of citizens, and the day was made a hoilday with flag-draped buildings, and with 8,000 troops lining the route of his parade from the airfield to the embassy.

Later he paid a formal call upon President Penaranda and cabinet members, asserting in a brief address that peace after this war must bring a higher living standard for the common people, and that the errors of the last post-war period which prevented establishing of universal, lasting peace must be avoided.

Rubber To Replace Steel On Tractors

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Three government agencies agreed today on a plan to put rubber tires on approximately 20,000 farm tractors now equipped with steel wheels.

The steel wheeled tractors have been sold to farmers since May 1. 1942.

Under the program worked out by the agriculture department, Office of Price Administration and the Office of Rubber Director, local rationing boards will authorize the conversions on the basis of certification by agriculture county war boards.

The agriculture department estimated that rubber tires on tractors effect savings of 15 to 25 per cent in fuel and up to 35 per cent in repair parts.

Bullets Frustrate Holdup In Detroit

Detroit, April 5 (AP)—Frustrating what appeared to be an attempt to hold up a Woodward avenue coffee shop at 1:30 a. m. Monday, Patrolman Leo Siskonen fired several shots at a man fleeing afoot.

Half an hour later Patrolman Roy Ellison saw a man toss a loaded pistol into a parking lot in nearby Montcalm street and collapse. The man was pronounced dead of bullet wounds when brought to Receving hospital.

Police identified him by fingerprints as Charles Moceri, 24. He had been shot twice, one bullet piercing his right arm and entering his chest.

ITALIAN PORT HAMMERED BY U. S. BOMBERS

LAND ARMY TAKES HILLS ON ROAD TO GABES

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, April 5 (AP)—Nearly 100 American Flying Fortresses loosed 200 tons of bombs on the southern Italian port of Naples Sunday setting fires whose billowing smoke blacked out the combustion of nearby Vesuvius and leaving the harbor littered with 24 crippled vessels and the main airport in a rubble of wrecked planes.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique today told of this greatest destruction yet heaped on Naples, the Tunisian supply key. The assault overshadowed all the land fighting in Tunisia where the second American army corps of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., won a number of commanding hills near the Gabes-Gafsa road and pressed on to the east for an eventual junction with the strengthening British eighth army.

Guns Knocked Out

The Americans, 12 miles or more southeast of El Guetar, fought on against strong German opposition and turned back a counterattack in which elite German troops tried to recapture the lost hills. Patton's command still was about 40 miles from the British eight army, which was deployed against axis positions along the Wadi El Akarit 20 miles north of Gabes.

(From axis radios in Europe came late reports that armored forces of the British eighth army were advancing toward axis defenses across the northern end of the Gabes gap and that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's artillery had renewed the attack on German-Italian positions).

Dispatches from the southern front disclosed that American infantry consolidated newly-won positions in Birmrabott Pass, east of El Guetar, today. Artillery units knocked out 15 German trucks and destroyed half a dozen guns being towed by the vehicles. There was no activity at Faid, and at Fondouk the situation was reported unchanged.

Advances In North

(A French communique said there was patrol and artillery action west of Pichon in central Tunisia. The Algiers radio said the British first army in the north had advanced without serious opposition to a locality east of Cape Serrat, 35 miles west of Bizerte. The German radio said fresh American reserves had been rolled up to the MaKnassy front "indicating new attacks will be attempted soon." Berlin said other U. S. concentrations were observed in nearby Pichon and Faid Pass sectors.)

BACK-TO-FARM MOVE STARTED

Adequate Labor Supply In Food Production Is Forecast

Washington, April 5. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today reported a back-to-the-farm movement and Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt predicted that the farm labor supply will be entirely adequate.

At the same time, there were these other developments:

The state department announced arrangements have been completed for importation of 10,000 Jamaican agricultural workers, and recruiting is to start next week. The Jamaicans will be used in middlewestern, eastern and western states.

The senate appropriations committee increased from $26,000,000 to $40,000,000 a house approved appropriations for the supply and distribution of farm labor.

McNutt, asked about farm labor prospects at a press conference, said he thought the supply would be adequate "not only to plant and cultivate, but likewise to harvest the crops."

Wickard, testifying before the appropriations committee, credited draft regulations with causing a movement of workers from industry to farming.

Groop Loses Close Race, 2433 To 1865

C. P. Titus of Gladstone was re-elected Delta county school commissioner for a four-year term in yesterday's spring election, defeating his Republican opponent, John Groop, 2433 to 1865, on the basis of 27 precincts out of a total of 30 in the county. The unreported precincts are Escanaba, Baldwin and Fairbanks townships.

Democratic candidates for state offices in most contests also carried the county by narrow margins. Lloyd B. Reid, state highway commissioner, Democrat, defeated Charles M.. Zeigler, Republican, in Delta county by a margin of 2170 to 1853, with 26 precincts reported. Eugene Elliott, Republcian, however, defeated his Democratic opponent, Edward McFarladn, by a narrow margin.

The county totals for state offices, upon the basis of 26 out of 30 precincts follow:

For regent of the University of Michigan: R. Spencer Bishop (R) 1935; Ira Dean McCoy(D) 1980; Ralph A. Hayward (R) 1925; Charles P. Nugent (D) 1976.

For state superintendent of public instruction: Eugene Elliott (R) 2046; Edward W. McFarland (D) 1948.

For state board of education: Stephen Nisbet (R) 1917; Bernard T. Foley (D) 1976.

For state board of agriculture: W. G. Armstrong (R) 1921; Arthur W. Jewett () 1965; Sarah Jones (R) 1842; Joseph Carey (D) 1996.

For highway commissioner: Charles M. Ziegler (R) 1853; Lloyd B. Reid (D) 2170.

TEN NIPPONESE BASES POUNDED

Seven Warships Sunk Or Damaged In Raids At Kavieng

BY MURLIN SPENCER

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Tuesday, April 6, (AP)—Allied planes carried new assaults to Japanese concentrations in the southwest Pacific yesterday with blows at 10 enemy bases, including an harassing raid of more than three hours on Buka, an island at the northern tip of the Solomons, the high command announced today.

While bombers continued a policy of hitting the enemy daily at as many points as possible, reconnaissance planes took another look at Kavieng, in New Ireland, and reported that the persistent Japanese still had shipping—including warships—there despite the heavy blows of the past week which cost them heavily in warships and merchantmen.

Reconnaissance showed some warships and merchant vessels are back in the area. It also showed a light cruiser beached, possibly the one reported sinking during Sunday's heavy attack on the harbor.

Liberator bombers found a 4,000-ton enemy merchantman in Sekar bay off Dutch New Guinea and scored what today's communique termed "close misses" with 500-pound bombs, but damage to the vessel was not immediately determined.

The far-flung attacks followed a three-day assault on enemy ships concentrations at Kavieng, New Ireland, during which 12 Japanese vessels, including seven warships of the cruiser or destroyer type, were sunk or damaged.

Unwanted Surprise In Store For Japs, Ambassador Claims

Aukland, New Zealand, April 5, (AP)—Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the United States, returned home today, predicting that unpleasant surprises are in store for the Japanese.

Here for consultations with his government, Nash said it was not part of the strategy of the United Nations to fight a holding, more or less defensive warfare against Japan until Germany is defeated.

"I am satisfied the Japanese will get a terrible shock when everything now being built up is unleashed against them. There is no doubt such force is being built up."

LAST BIG JOB IN STATE MAY FALL TO GOP

LIGHT WAYNE VOTE DISAPPOINTING TO DEMOCRATS

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Detroit, April 5 (AP)— Charles M. Ziegler, the Republican challenger for the post of state highway commissioner, swung into a growing lead over Democratic Lloyd B. Reid, the incumbent, in partial returns from today's statewide election.

The figures seemed significant in light of the fact more than half of the precincts counted came from Wayne county, traditionally a Democratic stronghold upon which Democrats had counted to overcome the normal outstate Republican majority.

Elliott Runs Strong

The highway department is the last outpost remaining in hands of the Democratic party in the family of elective administrative state officials and has been in Democratic hands since Murray D. Van Wagoner stormed it in 1933, going on from there to become governor.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, veteran Republican state superintendent of public instruction, stretched his lead over the Democratic contender for that office, Edward W. McFarland, Detroit educator and former chairman of the state liqour control commission.

Elliott, though trailing, was making a strong run in Wayne county and the trend, unless it were upset, would carry him to victory.

Republicans On Top

Elsewhere in the partisan contests—for two seats on the University of Michigan board of regents, two on the state board of agriculture and one one the state board of education—the Republican nominees held comfortably growing leads at the tabulation of votes neared the one-third point.

A surprising ding-dong three way race developed in the tabulation for supreme court justice in which the four candidates ran on a non-partisan ballot. Justice Bert D. Chandler, seeking re-election, swung into lead over Circuit Judge Neil E. Ried of Mt. Clemens, with Justice Emerson R. Boyles, another incumbent, just a handful of ballots behind in third place and Probate Judge Frank L. McAvinchey of Flint trailing far behind and apparently out of the running. The two top contenders will be declared elected.

Lightest In History

Today's voting was the lightest in modern political history, a circumstance which was a blow to Democratic hopes. The spotlight had turned upon the race for highway commissioner, after Republicans sought to seize the office by the simple expedient of abolishing the elective commis-

HONAN FAMINE BLOW TO CHINA

Relief Rice Shipments Captured And Burned By Japanese

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, April 5 (AP)—A famine in Honan province has become the greatest natural disaster befalling the Chinese since the Sino-Japanese war began almost six years ago, an official government statement declared today.

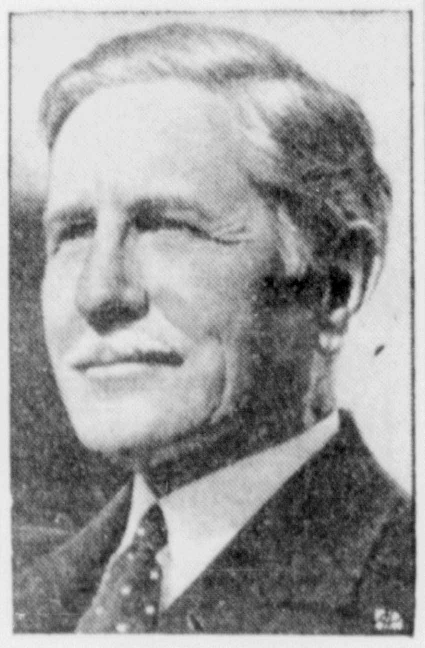
It said the government had received three different estimates of the number of persons affected: 3,000,000, 5,000,000, and 7,000,000, and that the 5,000,000 estimate "seems to be most reasonable."

The government began relief measures in October when it reduced the land tax in kind from 322,500 to 186,200 tons of rice, and also up to April had made 210,000,000 Chinese dollars available for relief.

The neighboring provinces, except Anhwei, have no large food surpluses to export, but plans to transport large quantities from Anhwei were frustrated by the Japanese who carried the war there last winter.

"Of the rice collected for Honan, the invader took what he could and burned the rest," the statement said.

Has Close Call



PATRICK J. HURLEY

Natal, Brazil, March 12, (AP)—(Delayed) — Brigadier General Patrick Hurley, former secretary of war and now a special representative of President Roosevelt, had one of the closest calls of his life this week in a plane mishap en route from the United States to Africa.

The huge transport on which he and nearly a score of others were passengers developed motor trouble and barely made it back to Natal from a point well out to sea.

The pilot, TWA Captain Donald Terry of Port Washington, N. Y., reported on return that one motor cut out periodically during the early stages of the trip and that when the aircraft reached the intertropical front, a region of consistent heavy rains, electric disturbances and towering cumulus clouds, another motor stopped completely. While limping back to South America danger lights in the cockpit indicated fire in a third engine. From that time on, Terry said, he "worried the plane home," adding that he virtually had given up hope of making it safely.

CHICAGO MAYOR HAS HOT RACE

Republicans Attempting To Unseat Kelly; Vote To Hit Million

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—For the third time in eight years Republicans will attempt to unseat Mayor Edward J. Kelly tomorrow in a city election that is expected to bring out 1,000,000 or more votes.

Kelly, Democrat who has been head of the municipal government for ten years, is opposed by George B. McKibbin, a Republican Ally of Gov. Dwight H. Green and a civic leader for two decades.

Politicians predicted that between 1,000,000 and 1,200,000 citizens would mark ballots, and thus determine whether Kelly should be elected to his third full term or McKibbon should be mayor for the next four years.

The brisk campaign revolved chiefly around Chicago and Illinois issues, although some Republicans contended the food and rationing programs had been handled poorly and that public reaction would be reflected at the polls.

The election also attracted national interest because it will furnish a sizable sampling of voting trends between the 1942 and 1944 campaigns.

Gov. Green took an active part in the attack on Kelly's administration. He charged there was an "alliance of criminals and crooked politicians."

McKibbin, who resigned as director of the state department of finance to make the mayoral race, promised to "destroy the Kelly machine," to cut taxes, and to "drive racketeers from the town."

Kelly, selected as mayor by the city council in 1933 to fill the unexpired term of Anton Cermak, and elected in 1935 and 1939 by decisive margins, ran on his record.

Democratic county Chairman P. A. Nash precicted Kelly would win by more than 200,000 votes. Republican county Chairman John T. Dempsey predicted McKibbon would triumph but offered no figures.

BOMBS RAINED ON NAZI-LAND AROUND CLOCK

AMERICANS FOLLOW RAF WITH BLOW AT ANTWERP

BY LEO BRANHAM

London, April 5. (AP) — Living up to Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker's recent promise to match the RAF blow-for-blow in a withering aerial attack on Hitler's industrial Europe, a huge force of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators pounded the Erla airplane repair works near Antwerp in Belgium today to follow up a heavy British assault on Kiel, Germany, last night.

Today's attack by the high-flying, precision-bombing American ships was declared to have been carried out with "good results." A DNB dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said the raiders scored direct hits "on blocks of houses, which caused fires and destruction and severe losses among the civil population" of Antwerp.

Brest Docks Blasted

Radio stations in Munich, Stuttgart, Koenigsburg, Luxembourg, Lausanne and Burgomunster, Switzerland, went off the air late tonight, indicating allied bombers were over the continent again.

The air ministry announced tonight that during the afternoon British Venturas of the bomber command, escorted by fighters, attacked docks and shipping at Brest. One enemy fighter was knocked down, but three British bombers and one fighter were reported missing.

Opposition Heavy

The Americans' first attack in the area of Belgium's second largest city was carried out by what observers on the English coast at Folkestone described as the greatest single force they had ever seen crossing the channel. The big four motored planes were escorted all the way to the target and back to the coast of England by an array of Spitfire fighters.

Fighter opposition was described as "heavy." Four bombers and one escorting fighter were missing, while two German planes were known to have been shot down by Spitfires and a number of others by the bombers. Returning pilots said the sky over the target was clear and they saw their hits register squarely.

Renault Works Hit

Before taking off on the raid, the Catholics among the bomber crews were given absolution and holy viaticum by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, military vicar of U. S. armed forces.

The latest blow in the United Nations' aerial offensive came on the heels of one of the busiest week-ends of the war for allied bombers based in Britain, and followed a pulverizing attack by 133 American Flying Fortresses yesterday on the Renault armament and engine works a few miles from the center of Paris. The British had pounded Essen, home of the Krupp works, Saturday night.

Since Friday night, when the RAF struck heavy and concentrated blows on the Nazi U-boat bases at St. Nazaire and Lorient in France, fleets of allied four-engined bombers, fighter - bombers, fighters and coastal command planes have struck almost continuously at the continent from the Baltic to the Bay of Biscay.

LAFRAMBOISE, OLSSON WIN

State Senator Polls Big Vote In Municipal Election

Gladstone, Mich.—Joseph LaFramboise and August Olsson were elected city commissioners at the Gladstone city election on Monday, with LaFramboise leading the race by a wide margin. In winning reelection to the commission LaFramboise polled 628 votes to 396 for Olsson and 357 for Leslie Hermanson.

LaFramboise, who also is state senator from the Michigan 30th district, led in each of the four precincts in the community.

The vote by precincts:

	LaFramboise	Olsson	Hermanson
1st	134	115	96
2nd	208	97	101
3rd	110	96	71
4th	176	88	89

J. F. Richardson, whose term as city commissioner is expiring was not a candidate for reelection.

Gladstone turned in majorities for Democratic candidates for state offices as well as for the county school commissioner position. C. P. Titus, incumbent, of Gladstone polled 630 votes here to 217 for his Republican opponent, John Groop. This margin was sufficient to turn an otherwise close contest into a decisive victory for Titus.

The local voters showed approval for the amendment proposals. The first amendment, provided for two year terms for township officers was approved 272 to 211, and proposal No. 2 was also favored, 230 to 185.

For state highway commissioner, Reid, the Democratic candidate, polled 489 to 288 for Zeigler, the Republican nominee.

Desertions Heavy In German Army; New Camp Opened

Stockholm, April 5. (AP)—The Nazis have reopened a concentration camp near Papenburg on the River Ems in northwestern Germany for deserters from the German army, usually reliable sources said today.

These sources said desertions were especially numerous in the Hamburg area among soldiers home on leave. Rather than return to the fronts, they were said to hide in the home of friends, but were soon forced to give themselves up because it was impossible to provide them food indefinitely under the rationing system.

They said it was impossible to determine how many men are held at the camp, but that reports continually come from Norway of wholesale desertions by Germans. The latest, unconfirmed, report said that a ship arrived near Tromsoe early in March with 630 deserters aboard.

Fats And Bones For Canines Point-Free

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Fido and Tabby got something to eat out of meat rationing today, but it still looked like rather slim pickings.

The office of price administration ruled that rendering fats, such as suet, and bones such as the rib bones produced in cutting a carcass or in boning of meat, may be sold point-free for use as animal foods.

"Lean trimmings co-mingled with these rendering fats and bones also may be sold point-free," OPA said.

More Gains Made In Russian Drive On Novorossisk

London, Tuesday, April 6 (AP)—Russian forces driving against the Nazi base at Novorossisk have captured several populated places in two days of hand-to-hand fighting in the Caucasus, and in the Izyum area of the Donets valley have turned back new enemy attempts to cross the river, Moscow announced today.

The midnight communique, recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, said also that the Russians consolidated their positions in the ring around Smolensk, and one unit broke through the enemy lines south of Bely and wiped out the occupants of several blockhouses with grenades.

The Germans over the week-end made what apparently was a major attempt to raid Russia's second city of Leningrad, but, the communique said, only isolated planes managed to penerate the city and drop bombs after air battles in which 42 German bombers were destroyed. The Russians acknowledged loss of seven of their planes.

The bulletin said that during the morning hours German tanks and infantry operated in two directions in attempts to outflank Russian units south of Izyum, where the Germans have been trying for several days to push across the Donets, apparently in a drive aimed at the important center of Voroshilovgrad.

Trenches Captured

The Soviet forces, however, were reported to have repulsed both attacks, disabling four tanks and annihilating about a company of infantry.

In one sector of the narrowing German bridgehead in the north Caucasus, a Russian unit broke into a fortified Nazi zone in a swampy district and captured two lines of trenches.

A german infantry regiment counterattacked, but was repulsed with heavy losses, Moscow said, including hundreds of dead and wounded left on the battlefield and four guns, 23 machineguns and other war material captured.

On the western front Soviet fliers were reported to have raided a railway station in the enemy rear, putting the station out of commission and demolishing the tracks.

"The raid proved so unexpected that German anti-aircraft gunners opened haphazard fire after the fliers had dropped their bombs and left the objecitve," the communique said.

Federal Overtime Wage Bill Passed

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The house passed today 234 to 107 legislation to extend until June 30, 1945, wartime overtime pay schedules for approximately 1,500,000 federal employes and to raise from 10 to 15 per cent the increases on the first $2,900 of pay for persons working on other than an hourly basis.

The measure now goes to the senate. Unless enacted, temporary pay adjustments would expire this month.

Cost of the overtime pay to the government is estimated at approximately $560,000,000 annually.

Under the measure, salaries of $5,000 and above are not affected and no persons could be raised above $5,000 by the percentage increase formula.

CUBANS DRAFTED

Havana, Cuba, April 5 (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista tonight ordered 8,000 Cubans, 20 to 25 years old to be called for army service, in a draft drawing April 25.

sionership and allowing Governor Kelly to appoint an administrative head of the department.

This, and the "good roads" battle cry raised by Reid when the lawmakers sought to strip his department of control of state highway maintenance formed the principal issues, but they apparently failed to stir a public interest much more closely centered upon the progress of the war. Wayne county's vote may not reach 120,000.

Defat of Reid would deprive Democcrats of their last voice in the state administrative board at Lansing, the policy-making group of the eight evective state administrative officials.

New Jersey Town Menaced By Fire Sweeping Forest

Tuckerton, N. J., April 5. (AP)—A forest fire which threatened this ocean county borough of 1,500 residents was partially under control at midnight, and the danger to the town was lessened, state police reported.

Abonf 600 men including states police, volunteer firemen, soldiers and crews of the state forest fire service battled the blaze which already had destroyed 10,000 acres of woodland.

NEW ENGINES ORDERED

Cleveland, Ohio, April 5 (AP)—R. J. Bowman, president of the Pere Marquette Railway company, announced today that his company has ordered twelve new heavy freight locomotives. The order for the engines, at a base price of $172,000 each, was given to the Lima Locomotive Works of Lima, Ohio. Delivery is scheduled for January, 1944. The locomotives will be the Berkshire type with a 2-8-4 wheel arrangement.

NO QUICK BITE IN DRUGSTORES

Lunch Counters Closing Due To Help Shortage And Meat Rations

New York, April 5, (AP)—Civilians, learning each day that the war means doing without, may have to forego that good old American custom—a quick bite at the corner drugstore.

Shortage of help coupled with food and meat rationing were reasons advanced by proprietors of drugstores scattered throughout Manhattan for closing of lunch counters and soda fountains which until recently had reaped a tidy profit. A number of other drugstore managers reported that they were contemplating shutting down food departments for similar reasons.

Marty H. Sasmor, president of the New York Pharmaceutical association, said: "The drugstore soda fountain is going to be as scarce as the cigar-store Indian. In the Bronx, I'd say that less than 10 per cent of the neighborhood stores now have soda fountains."

Drugstores in Greenwich Village and in the upper West Side were among those which have closed fountains and increased their stocks of hospital and drug supplies.

The loss of the food business went unmourned among the druggists, who said they preferred dispensing drugs and compounding prescriptions to smearing olive and nut spreads on toast and concocting hot fudge sundaes.

GROOP LOSES CLOSE RACE, 2433 TO 1865

The contest for county school commissioner was fairly close except for the city of Gladstone, the home town of the incumbent, C. P. Titus. Gladstone gave Titus a vote of 630 to 217 for Groop. Titus carried the city of Escanaba by the slim margin of 22 votes, 988 to 966. Groop held a slight lead in the early returns, but the margin swung heavily to Titus as returns from Democratic strongholds began to come in. The Gladstone returns, which were reported late, turned the contest into a decisive victory for Titus.

Friend Of Seamen Dies In New York

New York, April 5 (AP)—Mrs. Janet Lord Roper, 70, who established the missing seamen's bureau during the last World War and since that time had located 6,500 seamen listed as missing, died tonight.

Known to thousands of merchant marines during this and the last war as "our good shipmate," Mrs. Roper since 1915 had been housemother of the Seamen's Church Institute of New York, described as the largest shore home for merchant mariners in the world. She had been associated with seamen's welfare work for 53 years.

ITALIAN PORT HAMMERED BY U. S. BOMBERS

sharply in the Medjez-El-Bab sector, 35 miles southwest of Tunis. Patrols of Moroccan guomiers and Britons were active farther north in the sector between Sedjenane and Mateur, the key to Bizerte 18 miles farther on to the northeast.

French Bases Used

The Naples raid was four times as heavy as any of the five previous attacks by Liberator bombers and for the first time the Americans used French African bases instead of the western desert.

Of the 24 ships hit in the harbor, three were liners and three were submarines. Numerous smaller craft were hit as well as a floating dry dock.

The Capodichino airdrome at Naples was pockmarked with a saturated bomb pattern, and returning pilots reported at least 21 of the 97 grounded aircraft were struck. The whole raid lasted but 15 minutes and all of the Fortresses returned to their bases.

Typical of comment of the pilots were these remarks:

"After we had taken a run across the Capodichino air field, we saw that big fires had been started. * * * Italian fighters were scared and wouldn't attack even when we hit their city. * * * I saw large blasts of fire and smoke. We must have hit a fuel dump. * * * Bombs scattered on blocks of docks. * * * I saw a direct hit on a large liner and smoke up to 500 feet."

Doolittle Heads Raiders

Allied headquarters described the raiders of Major Gen. James H. Doolittle's northwest African strategic air force as a "strong force" and participants likened it to the devastating assault last Wednesday on the Sardinian port of Cagliari which virtually knocked it out of the war. The forts performed without fighter escort in good weather.

(The Italian communique said Naples, Syracuse, Salerno on Sicily, and the Island of Carloforte just southwest of Sardinia were raided Sunday.

("Great damage was caused to public and private buildings" in Naples and Syracue, the Italians said. The dead in Naples was said to total 221 and the injured 387. Syracuse was raided by planes from Malta, a British communique disclosed. The Italians said four were killed and 20 injured in Syracuse, and 12 killed and 30 injured in Garloforte. Four raiding planes were reported shot down.)

The Naples raid was only a part of the destructive offensive of the allied air forces that rule the Mediterranean skies. In operations Sunday, 40 axis planes were destroyed and five allied craft were lost. Eleven enemy ships were shot down in combat and 29 destroyed aground.

Mitchell bombers attacked a convoy in the Sicilian strats and small vessels on the southwest coast of Sardinia. Two ships were set afire and direct hits landed on several others.

One of the Lightning pilots escorting the Mitchells, Lieut. John B. Cappo of Marenisco, Mich., hit the water during the dogfight and his propeller was damaged. He managed to climb again, and reached home safely after another brush with the Germans.

Flying Cross Is Given Gen. Royce

Washington (AP)—Major General Ralph Royce, commanding general of the Southeast Army Air Force training program with headquarters at Maxwell Field, Ala., has been awarded a Distinguished Flying Cross for "extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight in the southwest Pacific area during 1942."

General Henry H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air Forces, made the presentation.

The citation for General Royce told of his making important reconnaissance and combat flights in the southwest Pacific, many "in the face of extreme personal hazards."

A native of Marquette, Mich., General Royce, 52, has been in the air corps since 1916. He holds the French Croix de Guerre for bravery in action during the first World War.

BOMBS RAINED ON NAZI-LAND AROUND CLOCK

describing the number of British heavy bombers which blasted the Nazi submarine base and shipbuilding yards at Kiel last night led experienced observers to conclude that the attacking force was the largest dispatched over Germany in several weeks, though probably not up to the 1,000-plane strength of the greatest raids.

The air ministry said several huge fires lighted Kiel but the complete observation of the damage done was impossible because of heavy clouds. Twelve bombers were lost in their 71st attack on the submarine base.

Taking off from bases in North Africa yesterday, another force of nearly 100 Fortresses poured 200 tons of bombs on the southern Italian port of Naples, hitting 24 ships in the harbor and destroying at least 21 grounded planes on Capodichino air field. The devas-Fortresses on Cagliari harbor in tating raid was over in 15 minutes, and, as in the raid by 100 Sardinia last Wednesday, every American bomber returned to its base.

MANY ATTEND SCOUT PARLEY

Dr. Wyland Urges Dads To Be Pals To Their Sons

Escanaba and other districts of the Red Buck Council were well represented at the annual regional conclave of the Boy Scouts of America held at Marquette on Sunday. One hundred and fifty-eight Scouting leaders from the Upper Peninsula were in attendance.

Representing the Red Buck Council were: R. G. Hentschell, Roy Bremer, Maurice Carlson, William Cook and Carl Olson, Manistique; E. O. Erickson, William Boucha, Rhynold Betts and Dr. A. A. Mellen, Munising; J. T. Jones, C. E. Hawkins, O. A. Ohman, Alfred May, Gladstone; W. C. Cameron, C. M. Armstrong, Rapid River; John Lemmer, Harry Gruber and Stanley Huntington, Escanaba.

Fathers must learn to become "pals" to their sons in order to hold a place in their boys' hearts, Dr. Ray O. Wyland, national director of education and relationships, Boy Scouts of America, said in an address.

The need for good fellowship between men and boys in cities and small towns was stressed by Dr. Wyland in his address during the noon dinner. In pointing to the need for fathers to became "pals" to their sons, he declared:

"No man knows how many boys have picked him as their ideal; considerable harm can be wrought by letting them down."

He emphasized the importance of Scouting through the 33 years of its existence. At present, he declared, 33 per cent of the men in our armed forces are former Scouts, while the percentage of Scout-trained commissioned officers in the army and navy runs as high as 65.

Citing the need for Scouting to aid in making a united nation, he spoke of the large turnover because of inductions into the armed forces. However, the leaders were told they must intensify their work to get new Scouts and retain old ones through development in each sponsoring institution, of a three-fold program: Cubbing (for boys 9 to 11); Scouting (12 to 15), and Senior Scouting (15 to 18).

At present, Dr. Wyland said, 340,000 volunteer men are working with 1,800,000 Boy Scouts in America—the largest educational and recreational program in the world.

339,954 Scouts in Region

C. J. Carlson, regional Scout executive, opened the morning session by reviewing the year's work in Region 1. The region, he said, is the largest in the United States, has the largest number of Scouts, 339,954, with 6,029 Scoutmasters and 50,649 other volunteers serving those boys.

Forums on administration, council programs and district activities were held during the morning and afternoon, with these regional officers in charge: Carlson, C. M. Finnell, W. W. Shaver, A. N. Ekstrand, J. H. Saum and C. O. Nimtz, deputy regional executives, Ralph Mozo, assistant director of Senior Scouting, and James McClusky, of the Chicago supply department, also conducted a series of meetings.

Wallace R. Kemp, Hiawatha council president, greeted the Scouters at the noon dinner, at which Ralph Sheehan, district finance chairman, was toastmaster.

Salvage Committee To Meet Wednesday

According to information received from Ole Thorsen, Delta county salvage chairman, a meeting of the committee will be held at the city hall at 7:30 p. m. April 7, for the purpose of planning and organizing the coming scrap drive. Expected attendance at the meeting will include county, city and township salvage committee chairmen, members of the county school commission, city school officials, members of the board of supervisors, county road commissioners, state highway representatives, farm implement dealers, service club and lodge representatives, grange members, 4-H club members, farm cooperative members, other farm and club members, USDA, war board members, dealers in lumber, coal and similar business men and Boy Scout representatives.

Representatives of all the above mentioned organizations will be expected to attend so that plans can be made for the scrap drives for the coming months.

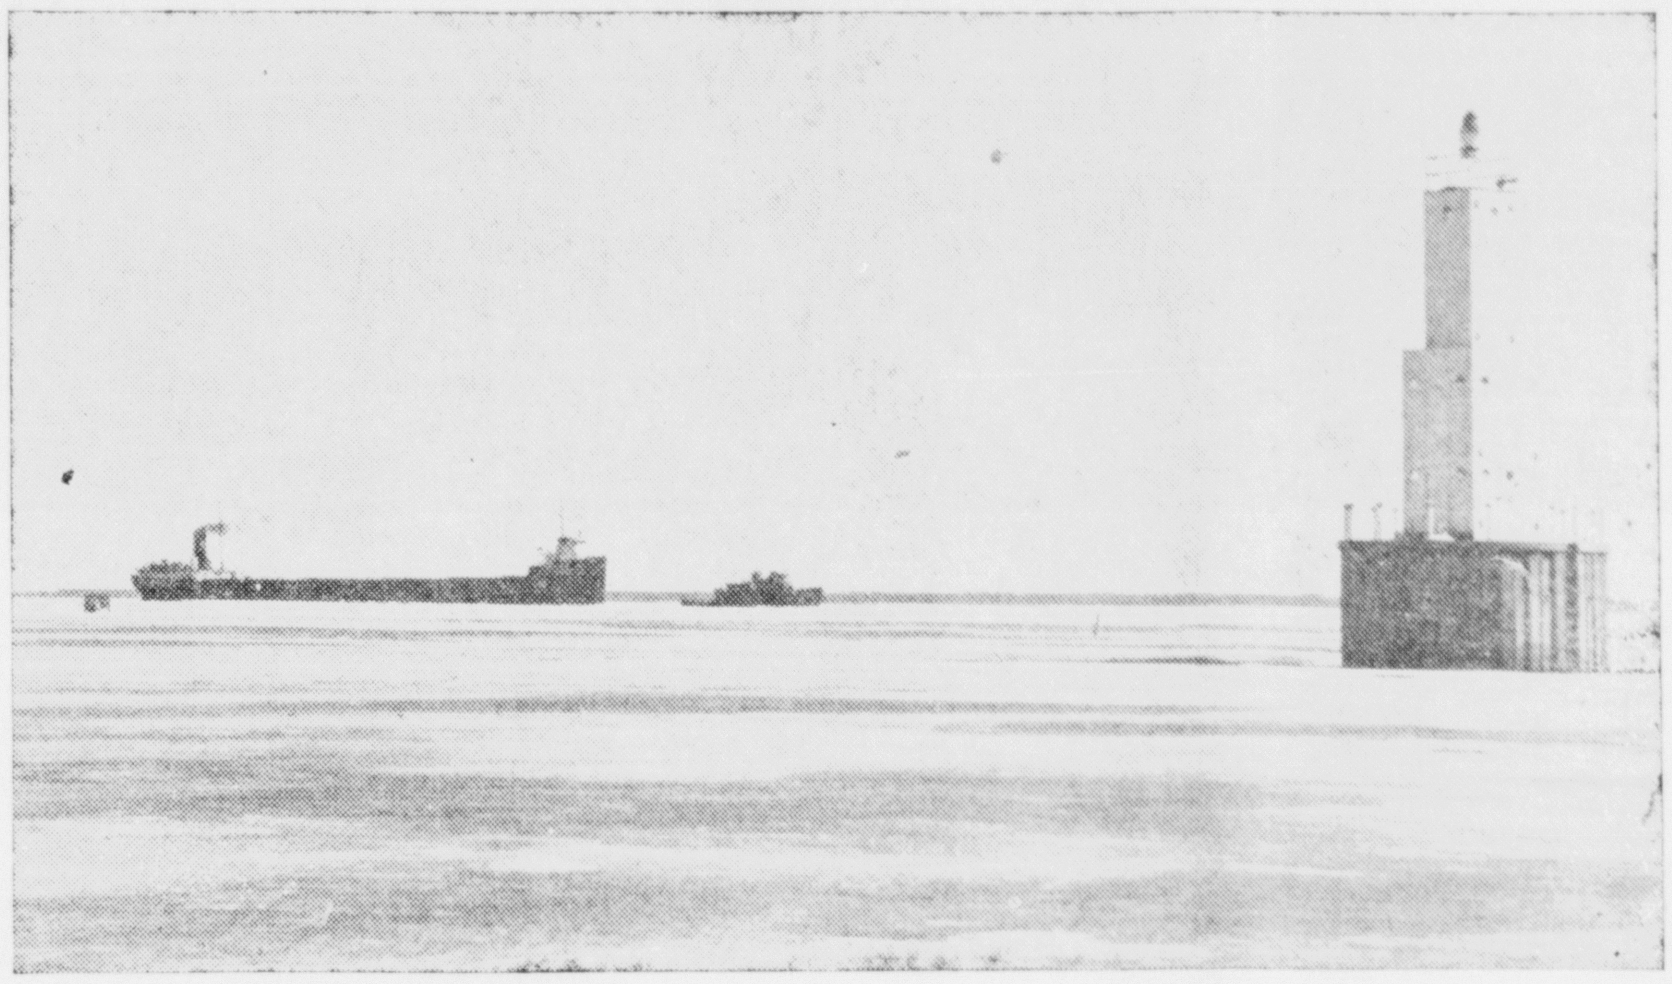
Individuals in groups other than the above who wish to attend the meeting are asked to contact Ole Thorsen at Wells prior to the time of the meeting.

BUSINESS FOR BAKERY

Iron River — Doubling its normal output to meet the demands of a temporary wartime order and adhering strictly to its high production standards was the challenge met by the Nolingberg Baking company in furnishing the Second division of the U. S. army with its bread supply while on winter maneuvers.

In filling this assignment, M. F. Nolingberg, manager, said that 600 loaves were baked each hour for nine hours a day, making a total of 52,000 loaves of "the staff of life" supplied to the army forces during the two weeks they were in the Ottawa National Forest

Tug Escorts First Ore Boat Of Season



The Inland Steel company freighter P. D. Block is shown here leaving the Escanaba harbor with the tugboat John Roen III leading the way through the ice-choked channel. The P. D. Block carried a cargo of more than 10,000 tons. Shortly after the P. D. Block cleared the harbor, the L. E. Block, another carrier of the Inland fleet, also cleared with a cargo of more than 13,000 tons of ore. (Daily Press Photo)

Garbage Service, Sewer Work Is Resumed In City

Spring weather yesterday brought a resumption of work on sewer construction projects in Escanaba, announcement of the start of regular garbage collection service, and a schedule of work heading toward the annual "spring cleaning" of alleys starting later in the month.

City Engineer A. V. Aronson yesterday said regular garbage collection service in the city with two trucks is to be started at once and advised residents to start placing their garbage in containers. The collection will be made once each week in the residential areas, twice each week along Ludington street.

Warm weather has loosened the frozen ground sufficiently to permit work to start again on the construction of a sewer line extension to the Birds Eye Veneer plant. Work has been halted for the past one and one-half months. It will take about 10 days to complete the job, the city engineer said.

After the Birds Eye Veneer sewer line is laid work will be resumed on the sewer line extension to DeGrand's cabins, and when this is completed work will be started on the sewer and water line extension to the Escanaba Veneer company plant. One block of sewer construction in North Escanaba also is on the list of spring projects. All of the sewer jobs are expected to be completed before the end of the month.

The city's power shovel is required on all of these jobs, and it also is used in the annual spring clean-up operations. It is not expected the ice will have melted out of the alleys to permit cleaning before the sewer jobs are done but if it does the power shovel will be moved into the city and the cleanup started before the end of the month. "Spring cleaning" will take about two and a half weeks to complete.

After work in the city with the shovel is done the shovel will be moved out to Portage creek to resume dredging operations there. Most of the work was completed last fall, but about two weeks work yet remains, Aronson said. The dredging last fall has been responsible for relieving flood conditions there this spring, and the water now is two feet lower than it was last year at this time.

The two major sewer construction jobs were undertaken by the city and the request of managers of plants operating on war orders. There have been other services extended by the city, such as winter sanding and plowing, and garbage collection from trailer parking areas which have made it difficult for the city to cut its operation of city equipment to a 40 per cent figure requested by federal officials, Aronson explained.

However, in the first three months of 1943 the total mileage for city-owned cars and trucks has been reduced 26½ per cent. Last year the first quarter mileage totaled 61,057. This year it has been reduced to 45,848 miles.

Honor Roll

Melstrand, Mich.—Those on the honor roll for March are as follows: First grade, Roy Brown; second grade, Inez Luke, Pearl Stone, Alvin Gamble, Janet Stebbins; third grade, Lester Brown, Donald Campbell; fourth grade, Franklin Stebbins, Patsy Gamble; fifth grade, Isabelle and Irma Johnson; sixth grade, Jerry Berry. Neither absent nor tardy, Lyle Worthing, Janet Stebbins, Inez Luke, Jerry Berry. Tardy but not absent, Dorothy Hyde, Roy Brown, Mary Hyde, Lester Brown.

Briefs

Mrs. Gladys Roach and children of Eckerman visited at the home of Mrs. Roach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Maddox.

Many of the men who are not employed in the woods are planning to trap for beaver this spring.

Busy on Home Front

Van Meer-Melstrand school children are doing all right by their Uncle Sammy. They bought $22.85 worth of war stamps and one bond in the last two school months. And, unlike children of a larger village or community, they have little opportunity to work in spare time to earn cash, for they must go to school at 7:30 (from Melstrand) and do not get home until about 5:00 p. m. In their spare time they gather and salvage scrap, too. Their teacher, Frank L. Berry is the father of one of those fighting Marines who took and held Guadalcanal and also has a son in the Air Corps and most of the boys and girls have brothers or other relatives in the service. So, they are busy on the Home Front.

Nahma

Red Cross Drive

The Bay de Noquet Lumber company and its employees contributed a total of $804.85 in the Red Cross Drive, it was announced yesterday.

The report, to date, follows:

Town employees, 202	$426.60
Woods employees, 142	178.25
Total, 304	$604.85
Bay de Noquet Co.	$200.00
Total contributors, 345
Total Collected	$804.85

The township collection will be known in a few days as soon as the chairmen are through.

Bridge Club

Mrs. Nelson Plude was the winner of the high score and honor prizes at the meeting of the Bridge club on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harry DeRosier.

H and N Club

Mrs. Herman Bramer entertained the H and H club at her home Thursday evening. Mrs. Amos Klindienst and Mrs. Martin Kousbaugh were the prize winners.

Children's Clinic

The children's clinic will be held on Wednesday, April 7, instead of the second Wednesday, at the Club House. Dr. Mordy A. Elstein, director of the Delta county public health unit and other members of the Health department will be here. The clinic is for all children, including infants and pre-school children of Nahma township.

Personals

Mrs. John Klotz returned Thursday to Madison following a short visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elegeert and son Tommy of Escanaba visited over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bramer.

Miss Nell Fleming returned Wednesday from Minneapolis where she visited for four days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clarence McKheregan.

Mrs. James Moore and children, Patsy and Edwin of Escanaba visited this past week at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson.

Mrs. Matt McDonald returned to her home the latter part of last week following a visit at the home of her mother in Harbor Springs.

Mrs. Clyde Tobin and son Clyde visited in Garden on Wednesday with relatives.

Mrs. Dave Cloutier has returned to her home from Sault Ste. Marie after being employed there the past several months.

Russell Hominger left Monday for Detroit to visit with his mother and sister who is employed in a defense plant.

Mrs. Harry Lindbergh of Chicago spent the past week-end here visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sefcik.

Mrs. Peter LeClaire and daughter Betty and Mrs. Oliver Estenson of Gladstone visited on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. F. X. Mercier.

Correction

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pilon of Nahma are the parents of a son, born March 26. A previous item incorrectly stated that Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pilon were the parents of the baby.

NO SMELT ARE IN SIGHT YET

Fishermen Are Skeptical, But Officials Are Hopeful

There is not a smelt in sight yet, but they should be running up the streams in this area by the end of the week, if they are going to spawn at all this season.

In past years, the silvery fish began their annual migration to the spawning beds shortly after the first of April, and usually the runs have been at their peak from the 10th to the 15th. There has been a shortage of smelt in the bay for a couple months, however, and disappointed commercial fishermen are skeptical that they will reappear at spawning time.

Officials of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Michigan and Wisconsin conservation departments have been going ahead with plans for the smelt harvest, nevertheless. They have been meeting with fishermen and sportsmen the past couple weeks, urging them to try to catch as many smelt as possible to make up for the shortage of other species of fish.

Biologists Make Study

Dr. John van Oosten, Ann Arbor, biologist, and Fred Meisnest, marketing expert of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, are considering the advisability of getting a one-month draft deferment and extra gasoline rations for smelt fishermen. The Wisconsin and Michigan conservation departments have assigned their biologists and other staff members to work with the federal officials during the next three or four weeks. These men are taking nightly test trips to discover evidence of the smelt runs at the earliest possible moment. They are also to make studies in an effort to determine the causes of mass deaths some weeks ago.

Dr. William Allison, biologist of the Michigan conservation department, has been stationed at East Tawas on the Lake Huron shore; Dr. Leonard Krumholz, at St. Ignace; Stanley Shust, at Escanaba; Dr. Eugene Roeloff, at Manistique; Harry Carson, at Marinette; and Don Euers, at Green Bay.

Dietician Coming Here

Miss Hopkins of Washington, D. C., dietician of the Fish and Wildlife Service, will come here the end of this week to make some observations on the methods used to prepare smelt in this section.

Dan Raess, district supervisor of the conservation department, stated yesterday he has learned that some persons are under the misapprehension that all state regulations have been relaxed for the duration. He points out that smelt dippers must have the usual one dollar fishing license. A 10-day license will be issued to non-residents for one dollar, and the wife of a non-resident may fish for 50 cents. No license is required for youths under 17 years of age.

The state department of agriculture is assigning inspectors to see to it that the smelt are properly handled. They will insist that smelt be dipped into boxes, and not on the ground or into trucks. Too much damage has been caused to the smelt in the past by careless handling.

Recipes For Smelt

Besides pan-frying of smelt, the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service recommends broiling and baking of the little fish that are soon to be on the market in quantity, as follows:

BROILING: Clean smelt (3 to 5 per person) and wipe dry. Salt thoroughly on both sides and let stand 5 minutes. Place in hot, well-greased broiler and cook under flame at moderate heat (375 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Skin surface should be covered with brown bubbles when done. Turn and cook other side. Slip broiled fish carefully onto hot platter, pour on drippings, garnish with cress or parsley and sliced lemon and serve at once.

BAKING: Wipe fish dry (2 lbs.), salt both sides, let stand 5 minutes. To 2 tablespoons melted fat add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon minced onion and 1 tablespoon salt. Dip each fish in this mixture and place in greased shallow baking dish, pour surplus fat over the fish. Bake in moderately hot oven (350 to 375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. If not sufficiently browned, put under flame of broiling oven. Sprinkle with parsley and serve from baking dish.

STRENGTH OF A CAMEL

Only the elephant is stronger than the camel when it comes to carrying burdens. A good riding camel will cover 150 miles in a day over desert ground, and a good baggage camel will carry more than 1000 pounds.

Grandstand Roof At Fair Grounds Damaged By Wind

Strong west winds coming up suddenly about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon ripped a section of roofing off the northeast corner of the grandstand building at the U. P. State Fair grounds, it was reported yesterday by John Sheahan, fairgrounds superintendent.

Sheahan said that a section of roof, including the sheeting, about 200 feet long and 30 feet wide was ripped off by the wind. Some of the roof was hanging over the edge of the grandstand and this was being removed yesterday by workmen.

It is the second time the grandstand roof has been damaged by windstorms. Last year a section of the roof was ripped away. The damage then was more extensive than it was on Sunday, Sheahan said.

PLAN ANGLE PARKING

Menominee—Prospect of angle parking on Sheridan road's west side, from Liberty to Ludington avenue, loomed as a strong possibility for this summer, following a conference here yesterday between John Dobelek, Escanaba, upper peninsula traffic engineer for the State Highway Department and Police Chief Anton Jensen.

Dobelek made a thorough survey of Sheridan road and expressed opinion that angle parking in the area suggested could be allowed without seriously endangering the district's safety.

Dobelek also made a survey of the entire city, with regard to elimination of arterial stop signs and agreed that many could be eliminated, especially where they are located away from the city's chief traffic arteries.

Must Sustain Veto

THERE are growing fears that Congress, goaded by the powerful farm bloc, might decide to over-ride President Roosevelt's veto of the Bankhead bill which would have increased agricultural prices by excluding government payments in figuring farm parity prices.

Fully aware of the farm bloc's great political influence, the president nevertheless chose to veto the measure, which he declared would substantially boost the cost of living for everybody and would strike from the hands of the government "the power to prevent very substantial increases in food prices." He cited the fact that between August, 1939, and January, 1943, the prices that farmers received for the crops they sold rose nearly 107 per cent, while the prices the farmers paid for the things they bought increased only 26 per cent. In other words, American farmers are better off now than they have been for many years.

There is another disturbing angle to the Bankhead inflationary legislation. If the farmers are given higher prices, it will give President Lewis of the United Mine Workers just the argument he wants for pushing through another wage raise for the miners. If this occurs, the inflation moves will be well on its way, and future attempts to control will be of no avail. It will be a runaway inflation like the one that wrecked Germany after the last war.

This is the crucial battle of the home front. Wire or write your congressmen to sustain the president's veto on the Bankhead bill. If this bill becomes law, it would adversely affect all of us, including even the farmers.

Real Wages

SINCE Europe went to war, American factory workers have improved their power by more than 40 per cent. The average worker can buy almost half again as much of food, clothing, shelter, recreation, education, health and happiness.

He could, that is, if the things he wants were available. He has the money, but he can not find the goods.

In ordinary times this economic unbalance would correct itself. Manufacturers would expand production. New plants would be opened. New conveniences and luxuries would appear.

Such natural readjustment is impossible today. The shortage arises from diversion of plants and raw materials to war production. It will persist until Hitler and Hirohito have been defeated.

With money enough to buy 40 per cent more, the worker can spend even less than before the war. His purchases of foodstuffs are limited by rationing. His rent is moderately well pegged. Except for some surpluses now nearing exhaustion, he can not buy the durable goods for which he yearns.

What is he going to do He is going to pay enormous and ever increasing taxes. He is going to buy war bonds. Presumably he will increase his insurance somewhat, and tuck something into savings accounts for emergency use.

He can, of course, patronize black markets, and spend money on ridiculously overpriced articles in the uncontrolled categories. He can blow himself to fancy clothes, night clubs.

It is to urge against such exxcesses that we are recapitulating once more the oft-en-told story of what makes for inflation. The wise worker will not waste even now, lest he shall want tomorrow.

Some day war-inflated wages and hours will return to normal. Incomes will drop. Automobiles, stoves, refrigerators, radios will be worn out—and there will be replacements in the stores.

The family that saves its excess income now will be in position after the war to buy those things which for the moment can not be had. Its purchases will keep factories going, provide employment, and help to avert economic disaster.

Not Exactly Right

CHARGES and countercharges and other eleventh hour attempts to sway public opinion in the contest for county school commissioner in the political campaign just closed have drawn unfavorable reactions from many citizens.

To those who stood on the sidelines it is not clear whether the use of certain endorsements was authorized by the persons mentioned. However, the general impression gained from the campaign was that it was not conducted in a manner befitting the dignity of the office sought.

After all, the office of commissioner of schools concerns the education of a large number of children in Delta county. But the boys and girls in the schools will not have much respect for the office if those who seek it resort to undignified political tactics. It is something that does not set well with a lot of people.

Maybe, the office should be made appointive, instead of elective, so that there will be a minimum of politics connected with it.

One Old Tire

FROM here and there come reports that spring, and the removal of checks against pleasure driving, are bringing back speeding that wears out automobile tires long before their time should come.

To any who are tempted to see how fast the old buggy still will go, let us recall the plea of Eddie Rickenbacker:

"If people only knew that the saving of one old rubber tire was sufficient to produce one of those rafts which might be responsible, as it has been in our case, for saving seven men, they might take it more seriously."

A SERIOUS MATTER
(Marquette Mining Journal)

The war-frauds unit of the Department of Justice has now interested itself in evidence developed by the Truman committee that the Irvin (Pa.) plant of the carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, a United States Steel subsidiary, has been supplying defective steel plates to Government agencies. The attention of the Department of Justice is not misplaced.

Letters and oral testimony by company officials were offered as evidence that inspectors in the Irvin plant ordered falsification of test records in order to make imperfect plates appear to meet specifications. Committee members connected another Carnegie-Illinois plant with the Kaiser-built tanker Schenectady, which broke up in January while on its trial run. The ship began to break, it was shown, in plates supplied by the Homestead plant of the same corporation, and these plates were described in a report on the collapse by the American Bureau of Shipping as "brittle" and "more like cast iron than steel."

Methods like those charged to the Irvin plant of Carnegie-Illinois are deplorable in the extreme. Higher officials of the corporation have so far held to the story that responsibility for the fake tests does not ascend into the higher ranks of officers. But it is not unnatural for committee members to wonder whether underlings on their own initiative would undertake practices enabling the corporation to dispose of defective plates as though they met specifications. Certainly the whole matter needs energetic investigation not only by the Department of Justice but by the parent United States Steel company itself. Mr. Fairless, the president, promised the committee such action would be taken.

It is now a commonplace to say that the war tests the country's power to survive. In the struggle every American institution will be tried to the utmost. A basic American institution is private enterprise and the great corporations through which in many fields it is carried on. When such a corporation telerates practices like those which seem to have gone on at Irvin, in its dealings with a Government at war, not only are the lives and safety of fighting men imperiled, but ammunition is also given to critics of the system. They will often argue that the misdeeds of a single firm outbalance the magnificent war production record of industry as a whole.

That is why the business community itself should be especially insistent on the punishment of those responsible in the steel-plate business.

TROOP CARS WILL HELP
(Christian Science Monitor)

At long last, the War Department has decided that "troop cars" shall be built, and railroadmen are meeting in Chicago to discuss the construction of 1,500 such cars. Essentially, these are typical steel box-cars, but with windows, steam-hose, sanitary facilities, and three tiers of berths, in which approximately 39 men may sleep.

One objection heretofore raised has been that American troops have never been handled in box-cars (despite the famed "40 men and eight horses," familiar to the AEF in World War One), and it was felt that to establish such a precedent would imply that American standards were being lowered. But such is not the case. The cars will be comfortable, clean, warm, well-equipped. When no longer needed for this purpose, they may easily be converted into standard-type box-cars.

The War Department decision is sensible for other reasons. A train of as many as 100 such cars may be handled by one crew, with one freight locomotive. By contrast, a similar movement of troops handled in regular Pullmans would require from five to eight trains, each with passenger locomotive and train-crew. The savings to American railroads will be prodigious. The passenger engines thus released ought to be diverted to the movement of tankcars containing oil and gasoline eastward. Thus, shorter trains of tankers, moving on passenger train-schedules, would lift the movement of oil from a present slow average of 10 to 15 miles per hour to a point much higher.

"Sadism," broadly speaking, is a maladjustment or perversion in which erotic satisfaction results from inflicting torture on others. The monstrous practices of the Nazis are typically sadistic. The word "sadism" is derived from the surname of the notorious Marquis de Sade (pronounced: sad), who first wrote of the vicious perversion. The "sad" of sadism, rhymes with bad, mad, cad (a triplet that gives us a pretty good thumbnail sketch of Hitler, the arch-sadist). Pronounce the words:

I'd Rather Be Right

NOTES FOR A SPEECH TO THE GERMANS: Germans! You are now on the defensive. Your Fuehrer has told you so. You are trying to recruit 100,000 Frenchmen to build a wall around the coast of Italy. That will be part of a wall you will try to build along the entire Mediterranean, a "Mittelmeer" wall from the Turkish frontier around Greece, Italy and the southern shores of France.

But, look here, Germans! Do you really know what it is like to be on the defensive? Well, we know. We, the allies, have been on the defensive. Let us tell you about it.

It is not good, Germans. It means that you must have enough materials and enough men at every point, at all times, while we need have only enough for the points of attack. Oh, Germans, how well we know what it means to be on the defensive! It means that you will never have enough goods and you will never have enough men, from this moment on. The defensive is a hungry strategy, Germans. It absorbs all the goods and all the men that you can supply, and then it cries out ravenously for more.

—YOUR TURN BEHIND THE WALL—

We know. We lived through it. We wrote and read books about it. Once was called "Defense Will Not Win the War." It became a classic in America.

It spoke the simple truth (taken from your own generals!) that those who are on the defensive must scatter their weapons at a hundred points, where they lie, rusting uselessly, while those who are on the offensive need only choose the weakest point, and marshal the most of their power there.

Germans! What a strange turn has taken place in the events of this war! You, who proved that walls are good for nothing, must now build a wall and hide behind it. You, who made a joke of the Maginot, must now hide behind the Mittelmeer!

You are condemned to adopt the same strategy that you, yourselves, have proved to be unsafe.

You are forced to play the game of the other side, after having completely demonstrated its disadvantages. Germans! How can an army fight when it is compelled to give up its own strategic conceptions, those on which it was built, and to adopt the strategic conceptions of the very armies it has defeated?

—THE BLITZ BECOMES THE SITZ—

When you defeated those armies, you defeated their ideas. You Germans have talked much of that. You have made a mystic conception of the offensive; you have made it the military expression of the Nazi political idea. But can Wotan hide behind a fence, Germans? Can the lightning lie in a box?

Germans! Your generals try to comfort you. They tell you that every town in Europe is a "fort," impassable, unconquerable. But, Germans, that is Polish talk of the summer of 1939, that is French talk of early 1940. Your Dr. Albert Speer, building the Mittelmeer Wall, is the Andre Maginot of 1943! Your blitzkrieg has become the sitzkrieg, and you turn for comfort to the philosophy of your own victims.

When you quote your own slaves to prove yourselves safe, how safe can you be?

—AND WE LEARNED IT ALL FROM YOU—

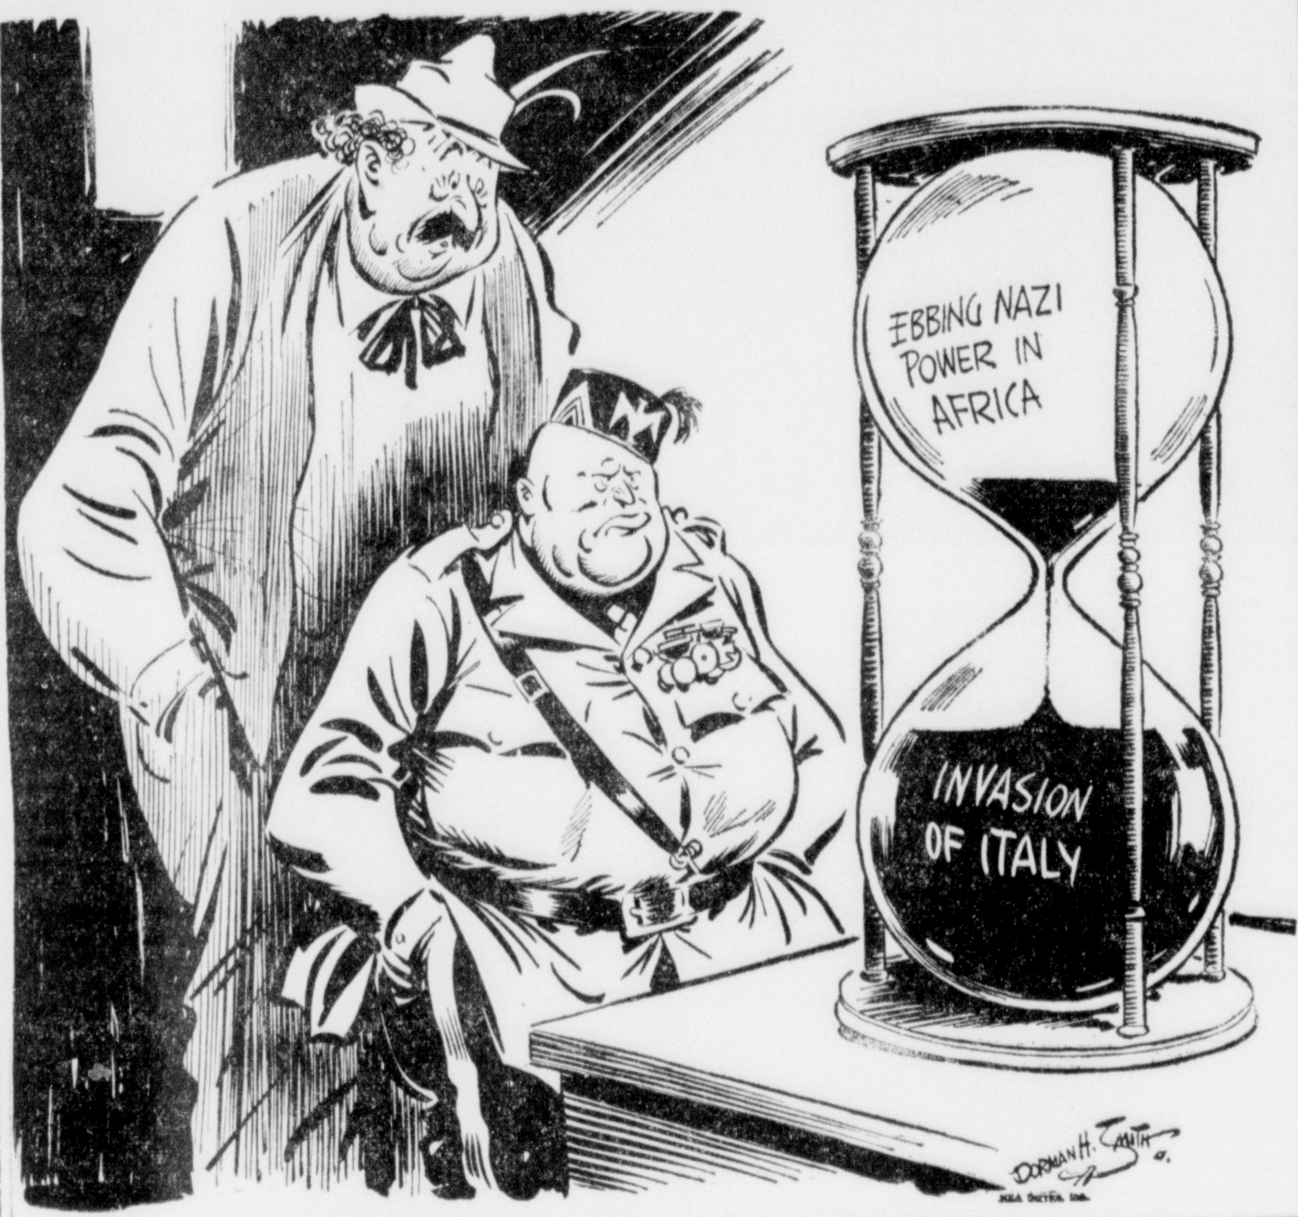
Oh, Germans, there is so much we could tell you about the defensive, and all of it we learned from you! How the armies wait and spoil with waiting! How the quarrels break out, how each general defending his own point, pleads each day and all day for more men, and more supplies, pulling them out of a worn and exhausted country.

We could tell you how we Americans and Englishmen used to take each other by the arms and say to each other: "This will not do! This cannot do! The defensive means that the other side chooses the battlefield, and, naturally, he chooses the one best for him." We used to say to each other: "There are not enough weapons in the whole world for a complete defensive."

And it was all true, and we learned it all from you. And now you speak as we did, and we speak as you did, and the world turns, and the conquerors have won only the right to imitate the conquerred. They are telling you how wonderful are walls, Germans.

Germans! With the blood of your own sons, you have proved that the things your leaders say to you today are lies.

Just a Matter of Time



Good Morning!

SOME DAY—Now that election day is past, it will do no harm to make a few observations on the slightly slap-happy attitude of the American voter toward political candidates and political issues. Most writers in your favorite newspaper have (or will) inform you of the current political inconsistencies in the national or state picture. The Bugler, therefore must confine his comments to the local scene.

Voters should be impressed by this time with the liberal dash of dressing candidates slap into the campaign dish they serve up to the voter just before election. That dressing always contains a little spicy element posing as a great issue, often constitutes the only fillip to an otherwise dull campaign menu. Such a tobacco ingredient was evident in Delta county over the week end in the campaign for county school commissioner.

On Saturday, just two days before election day, the voters of Delta county were informed in an advertisement sponsored by "friends" of C. P. Titus that rural school board members endorsed Titus as candidate for county school commissioner.

On Sunday, just one day before election day, the voters of Delta county were informed in an advertisement sponsored by "friends" of John Group that rural school boards had not officially endorsed Titus as candidate for county school commissioner.

So there's the big issue of the campaign, the last-minute dash of high seasoning to stir the voter's political appetite!

"Friends" (another name for the political party with which the candidate is affiliated) say Titus has been endorsed! "Friends" of Groop say he hasn't! Wow! Get out the banners, sound the political timbrels! The voter must be stirred even if you have to do it with an electric mixer.

But some day, m-f'rans, a voter is going to be interested enough after an election to find out just where—and how—the truth lies. Yes, some day—but not this year.

IN RUSSIA, TOO—Arrival of the ice-breaking carferry Sainte Marie Saturday afternoon to help open the harbor was viewed with interest by Escanaba folk. Perhaps many of them don't know the Russians "borrowed" plans for ice crushers such as the Sainte Marie and built ships of like design for use on the Baltic Sea and Lake Baikal.

That was long before Brother Joe Stalin and the USSR. The Bugler isn't sure of the year, but according to the late A. L. Sawyer's "The Northern Peninsula of Michigan," it happened back about 1904 or 1906. Sawyer wrote of the Sainte Marie:

"The great ferries which the Russian government has in service on the Baltic Sea and Lake Baikal and which have been exploited as the most powerful ice breakers in the world, are said by experts to be, if anything, its inferior. In this connection it is a matter of history, which has not been sufficiently emphasized, that Frank Kirby, of Detroit, who designed the Sainte Marie, also furnished the Russian engineers with their working plans for the Baltic Sea and Lake Baikal wonders. He submitted bids and plans for building them, but although they were formally rejected they were informally adopted."

Just goes to prove that even American engineers couldn't get along with Czarist Russia.

Consoling thought today: Those same ice crushers Frank Kirby dreamed up for the Russians are helping Soviet Russia in its battle against Hitler's hordes. So it's true that sometimes an ill-wind will blow some good to somebody sometime.

ARMY SLANGUAGE—If the boys in the Army wrote the way they talk, the folks at home would have a hard time understanding them. For instance: Mess sergeant is a "belly robber," service stripes worn on the uniform sleeve are "hash marks"—not something dropped on the front of your vest, a "puritan" is a good conduct medal, a "visiting general" is any officer with a lot of medals, "bolo on the dry runs" means to miss plenty on rifle practice firing—"missing the Maggies" means to hit the target every time in shooting for a record. Even the uninitiated nowadays recognize o.d. blouse as winter jacket, and NCO as non-commissioned officer, but did you know that "taking another stack" meant signing up for another term of service?

AIR SAFETY—A Bugler aide was impressed the other day with the number of flying hours the army student pilots are putting in at the local airport—without so much as a minor accident. There are several reasons why this should be so, but mostly it's because of the safety-first attitude of Sig Wilson, flight instructor, and his assistants.

On Sunday afternoon, reports the aide, a strong wind was blowing up from the west. Planes coming down did plenty of wing-wobbling in setting down on the runways.

At a signal from Sig the planes came trailing in one after another, taxied to the hangars, were rolled into the shelters and the doors were closed. Less than an hour later the velocity of the wind increased dangerously—but the planes were safely tucked away for the night.

BUGLE NOTES—Most of Escanaba's local coal dealers are waiting for their ship to come in—with more coal for the retail trade. Wood, to which many people turn in this in-between weather, is scarcer than the pork in a can of pork and beans.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1933

Washington — Mobilization of the first 25,000 recruits for the conservation corps will be started tomorrow with four government departments speeding preparations for an attack on unemployment.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground, municipal garden plots of the sewage plant location will be plowed and staked out.

Gladstone—Despite the fact that Gladstone voters turned down a special levy for the support of the municipal band, the band will continue to function as in the past.

20 Years Ago—1923

Riga — Physicians attending Nikolai Lenine, Russian premier, report that the paralysis from which the premier is suffering is incurable and must inevitably cause his death.

Manistique—Firemen yesterday assisted with the work of placing a new awning on the frame at the Manistique city hall. The awning is needed to keep the sun out of the city clerk's eyes.

Gladstone—The last meeting of the city council under the old charter was held last night, when the city council and Mayor Tordeur met to canvass the vote cast at the election Monday.

25 Years Ago—1918

London—Hindenburg's Legions have once more surged forward across the path paved by his heaviest guns. The allies, however, are confident that there will be no major break-through.

Say, fellows, go easy on the Bull Durham. Representatives of the firm were in the city last night to announce that they would be unable to furnish Bull Durham smoking tobacco for three months. The supply is going to the soldiers in France.

The high temperatures of the past few days have so weakened the ice on the bay that Jacob Lausen probably will not venture across the ice any more this season.

Daily Quiz

By Haskin

Q. Why is whistling not permitted on a Navy vessel? A. H.

A. Because it might be confused with the Boatswain's Mate's pipe, which blows for attention and silence before orders are given.

Q. How many women have addressed the Congress of the United State? B .L. R.

A. Only two women have addressed Congress. The first was Queen Wilhelmina; the second, Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

Q. What is the average number of toll calls a day over Washington's telephones? M. P. L.

A. Toll calls out of Washington, D. C., now average 39,000 for a quiet business day. In 1939, the number was 11,000.

Q. Is D. E. Stevenson, author of the Mrs. Tim stories, related to Robert Louis Stevenson? R. C. A.

A. Her father, David Alan Stevenson, was a first cousin of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Q. What is the smallest amount of rainfall needed to carry on agriculture without irrigation? J. E. B.

A. In general, 20 inches a year is regarded as the minimum.

Q. How many secretaries has Mrs. Roosevelt? F. M.

A. Mrs. Roosevelt has only two secretaries—Mrs. Helm and Miss Thompson.

Q. What is the highest volcano in the world? J. J.

A. Cotopaxi, in Ecuador, is the loftiest active volcano. It is 19,613 feet above sea level.

Q. When was Myron C. Taylor appointed United States representative at the Vatican? E. E. W.

A. December 1939. The appointment of Mr. Taylor ended a 72-year gap in which we sent no envoy to the Vatican.

Q. For what purposes are one hundred thousand dollar bills used? D. B. D.

A. One hundred thousand dollar bills are used for exchange purposes only, for Federal Reserve Banks. Five and ten thousand dollar bills are used for commercial transactions.

Q. What is a love lock? M. Z.

A. A love lock is a curl longer than the rest of the hair and worn on the left side. The fashion was introduced by Charles I of England.

Q. Why are Parker House rolls so called? C. J.

A. The Parker House roll takes its name from the Parker House in Boston, where this particular type of hot bread was first served.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Pearson

Washington—A great man died in Los Angeles the other day. He will be missed by thousands of young men and women whom he had helped, and who had come to love him. He was Judge Ben. B. Lindsey, the father of the Juvenile Court system in this country.

I am one of those whom he helped. I shall miss him more than I like to realize.

A few weeks before Judge Lindsey died he wrote me: "I am getting along in years now (73), but I never felt any better even when I was 40, and am going so strong the doctor and my wife have to hold me down." Then he went on to say he wanted my advice regarding the writing of his memoirs.

"Personally," he wrote, "I have never been particularly concerned about any memoirs. But I have been much more alone in this work than most people in pioneer ventures — very little sympathy but mostly opposition, especially from the lawyers and even more so from the judges. So I should like to leave something from my concrete experiences that will help to carry on what we have begun."

That book unfortunately was never written. I was not able to help much, though I think now that if I had dropped everything and gone to Los Angeles to help with the book, the result might have been a more useful contribution to society than the daily column that pours from this typewriter.

But having been remiss then I should like to make partial atonement by telling you something about Ben Lindsey.

I first met him when I was 17, under rather unusual circumstances. I was paying my way through college by working in the summer on a Chautauqua tent crew; and at three o'clock one morning after taking down a tent in Reidsville, N. C., I went with another youngster to a spigot in the railroad yards, where we proceeded to take a sponge bath.

In the early morning twilight we were arrested, haled into court and were about to feel the full effect of North Carolina law. However, Judge Lindsey had lectured at Chautauqua the night before, heard of our plight and came to our rescue.

The speech he made will go down, at least in my memory, as historic. Arguing that we were juveniles, he pointed out that every member of the community had an obligation to be clean, that it was up to the town to provide bathing facilities; that the charge against us, "obscene exposing of person," was so broad that it might be misconstrued by any future enemies. (With psychic insight, he realized even then, how many enemies I would have). Finally, he said that if convicted of a criminal offense we could never hold government office.

We were acquitted.

—FIGHTS KU KLUX KLAN—

The next time I saw Ben Lindsey was in Denver in 1924. I had gone out to write a story on his battle against the Ku Klux Klan, and to help in his re-election. He had already battled the Rockefellers in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Strike, persuading Woodrow Wilson to send troops to check the company's paid police. He had also battled every big interest in Colorado. And now he took on the Klan.

Every anti-Klan candidate in Denver lost that year except Judge Lindsey. His seat was contested by a KKK judge who later shot himself while the auditors were examining his books. Despite the suicide, however, that recount was kept over Lindsey's head by the Klan and came before the Supreme Court of Colorado in 1927. At that time, three years later, a court on which sat two Klansmen, together with Chief Justice Greeley Whitford, once jailed by Lindsey, disbarred him and ruled that he had not been elected a Juvenile judge—even though his opponent was dead.

At his age most men would have been broken. After 27 years of serving his city as Juvenile Judge—27 difficult, pioneering years, he was outlawed. But Lindsey did not quit.

—TRIUMPH IN CALIFORNIA—

He moved to Los Angeles, and in a few short years was elected to its Superior Court by the largest vote in history.

There are many unwritten chapters of Ben Lindsey's turbulent, varied life awaiting his biographer. One was his friendship with Thomas Edison and a conversation particularly significant in view of the current rubber shortage. Visiting Edison in 1929 at the beginning of the Hoover Administration, the famous inventor told Lindsey:

"Look at that Government report on rubber. It must have cost the Government $100,000. But there is not a page in it that indicates any imagination or understanding of this rubber problem. The time will come when it is going to be possibly a major cause of our defeat—if we are ever defeated—in the war which is inevitable, and when even this country may be shut off from its Oriental rubber market."

—ON FORD PEACE SHIP—

Lindsey got to know Edison on the Henry Ford Peace Ship which sailed to Europe in 1915. He and his wife, together with Samuel McClure, magazine publisher, were the only members of the party to get inside Germany, where they got to know Undersecretary of State Alfred Zimmermann. Judge Lindsey always remembered one prophetic conversation with Zimmermann in which he said:

"Britain and America have no right to court the friendship of Japan. Don't you know that Japan is ambitious to be the master of Asia? And how do we know that when the time comes, though fratricidal strife of the white man whose blood is oozing out on the battlefields of Europe, Japan won't try to find a way to inflame the yellow races against the white races. Then the great war of the world for possession of this planet will come."

81 CALLED FOR LOCAL EXAMS

Men Will Report Wed'y Afternoon At Legion Headquarters

The local draft board called 81 registrants, including ten transfers, to report at the American Legion headquarters Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock for local physical examinations.

The men who pass the examinations will be reclassified in Class 1-A and probably will be called to service in May.

The list of registrants called for examination this week is particularly large because no physical examinations were conducted last week.

The list follows:

Maurice Joseph Pirlot, John Roy Johnson, Escanaba; Isaac Isadore Belanger Gladstone; Rudy A. Biendarra, Henry John George Honeld, Roy Isadore Larson, Walter Caron, Leo Joseph Moreau, Escanaba; Albert Leonard Leisner, Bark River; Lloyd Charles Artibee, Escanaba.

Arthur Gould, Leonard Clinton LeDuc, Kenneth Arthur Toushak, Joseph Jean Derouin, Escanaba; Vernon August Long, Gladstone; Edward Joseph Meyer, Escanaba; Stewart Thomas Baker, Brampton; William Clarence Shepley, Rapid River; Raymond Francis LaPorte, James M. Myers, Wilfred Emil Pepin, William Saylor Knapp, George Harry Grab, Escanaba; Armand Raphiel LaPointe, Gladstone.

Vagn Ejvino Gydesen, Sherman Norman Palmateer, George William Jensen, Lawrence Joseph Morin, Escanaba; Robert Vincent Wilbee, Gladstone; C. Raymond Anderson, Escanaba; Herbert Henry Cornell, Gladstone, Iver John Johnson, Escanaba.

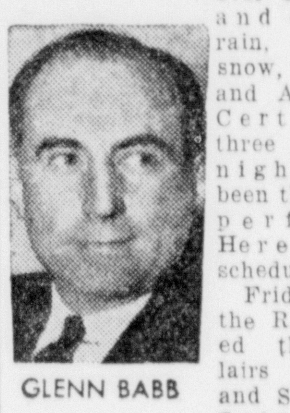
Allied Air Blitz Makes German Boasts Foolish

BY GLENN BABB

The roaring processions of British and American heavy bombers across the English Channel over the week-ehd must have caused the Germans to wonder if that time predicted last summer by Air Marshal Harris were not already here: "Soon we shall be coming over every night and every day, rain, blow or snow, we and Americans." Certainly for three days and nights it has been that kind of performance. Here is the schedule:



GLENN BABB

Friday night the RAF attacked the U-boat lairs at Lorient and St. Nazaire; Saturday the RAF was over Brest and Abbeville; Saturday night the RAF made a "heavy and concentrated" raid on Essen, home of the Krupp works; Sunday 133 American Flying Fortresses "heavily and accurately" bombed the Renault plant near Paris; Sunday night the RAF attacked in "great strength" the U-boat base and shipyards at Kiel; Monday United States Liberators and flying forces attacked German industrial targets at Antwerp in daylight with "good bombing results."

This was the score against only the western bastions of Hitler's Europe. The time has come when hardly any part of the new dark continent can be considered immune to the scourging of the allied bombers. Fleets of American four-motored bombers comparable to those which cross the English Channel are now in position to blast the southern shores, as Naples and Cagliari have learned in recent days. Both have suffered blows of such destructiveness as to greatly decrease their value in axis preparations for the coming finale in Tunisia, either as supply ports or bases for a possible "Dunkerque fleet."

The bombing campaign is one of three closely interlinked phases of the United Nations' program, the others being the war on the U-boats and preparation for the coming invasion or invasions of the continent. The bombers are playing an important role in the submarine campaign, carrying the battle of the Atlantic clear to the factories that produce U-boat parts and to the shipyards that assemble them as well as to their lairs on the Atlantic coast. At the same time they are doing the preliminary work of the invasion program, softening up both western and southern Europe for the blows to come.

We have the word of the best allied authorities that this is only a foretaste of what is to come. And yet the results already must have meant considerable crippling of Hitler's war machine. Great areas of a dozen of Germany's greatest industrial cities have been laid in ruins. Havoc has been done to transportation, one of the weak links in the German war effort. Experts say it takes eight or nine months for such destruction to make itself felt in the actual arrival of war materials on the fronts, and the reich has been under heavy although still intermittent raids for nearly a year now. It is more than ten months since that first 1,000-plane raid on Cologne.

The United States air force in Britain is not yet of the size necessary for attacks of that scale and its bomb loads still are measured in hundreds of tons instead of the thousands which the RAF's Lancasters and Stirlings deliver in their night forays. But the American contribution to the bombing war already is an important one and there is every indication that the coming weeks will see it grow tremendously.

Morale Must Suffer

Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, the American air commander in Britain, still calls his a "token" force but looks forward to the day when it will be an equal partner in size and power with the RAF in Britain. Not only will numbers be increased steadily but Eaker promises that new, bigger and faster bombers with three or four times the bomb loads of the present types would be in action. By midsummer, he said, the U. S. air force there will be so strong that "we won't give a damn whether they (the Germans) know we are coming or not."

The Germans, who loosed total aerial war on the world and boasted that it could not be visited on them, are learning now how foolish that assumption was and how the leaders who promised them immunity betrayed them. Large sections of the reich's population are undergoing ordeals surpassing that of London during the worst of the blitz. We get little chance to know what is happening to German morale under these conditions but there is justification for belief that it will hardly match that of the people of London and Coventry and Plymouth. For one thing there is not the hope of better times to come. For another there surely is loss of faith in the leaders who told them that such things could not happen to the fuehrer's people.

Aircraft Spotting Schedule Is Issued For Present Week

The aircraft spotting schedule for the remainder of this week has been announced by the Escanaba unit of the Aircraft Warning Service. Team captains are requested to notify their spotters for the day and to notify them they are to go on duty. Spotters who do not have their identification cards may get them from Alice Kvam at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The schedule follows:

Tuesday

Mrs. George Grab, captain, 2068.

1 a. m. to 4 a. m.—Rev. J. D. Barnard, Rev. C. Satterbloom.

4 a. m. to 7 a. m.—G. A. Bauchnecht, L. Beaumier.

7 a. m. to 10 a. m.—Mrs. John Edick, Mrs. George Grab.

10 a. m. to 1 p. m.—Mrs. Anna Brown, Mrs. Charles Sherlock.

1 p. m. to 4 p. m.—Mrs. Wm. Knapp, Mrs. Lawrence Erickson.

4 p. m. to 7 p. m.—Mrs. Derlin Remington, Mrs. S. Nerbonne.

7 p. m. to 10 p. m.—Ken Gunderman, George Lindenthal or Ed. Martinson.

10 p. m. to 1 a. m.—D. Meunier, Harry Belanger.

Wednesday

Albin Carlson, captain, 900.

1 a. m. to 4 a. m.—C. R. Wickman, George Petersen.

4 a. m. to 7 a. m.—J. Christensen, C. W. Murdock.

7 a. m. to 10 a. m.—A. Provencher, Nap LaChapelle.

10 a. m. to 1 p. m.—Mrs. J. Sharkey, Mrs. Ole Norstrom.

1 p. m. to 4 p. m. — Mrs. M. Coon, Mrs. R. Miron.

4 p. m. to 7 p. m.—Mac Danielson, David Thorsen.

7 p. m. to 10 p. m.—Ole Norstrom, Al Gustafson.

10 p. m. to 1 a. m.—L. Clairmont, Art Erickson.

Thursday

Mrs. M. Kasson, captain, 492-J.

1 a. m. to 4 a. m.—A. Block, M. Feldstein.

4 a. m.to 7 a. m.—M. A. Trams, N. J. Harris.

7 a. m. to 10 p. m.—Mrs. M. Kasson, Mrs. A. M. Gilbert.

10 a. m. to 1 p. m.—Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer, Mrs. B. W. Hall.

1 p. m. to 4 p. m.—Mrs. Et. St. Martin, Mrs. Pearl Burke.

4 p. m. to 7 p. m.—Roger Moras, G. J. Steicker.

7 p. m. to 10 p. m.—Edw. Olson, Walter Nelson.

10 p. m. to 1 a. m.—B. W. Hall, Hal Gerletti.

Friday

Stanley Huntington, captain, 648.

1 a. m. to 4 a. m.—S. Huntington, Kryn Bloom.

4 a. m. to 7 a. m.—Ted Baldwin, Wm. King.

7 a. m. to 10 a. m.—Hal Reade, Clint Dunathan.

10 a. m. to 1 p. m.—Josephine Sayklly.

1 p. m. to 4 p. m.—Mrs. C. F. Riegel.

4 p. m. to 7 p. m. — George Walter, Frank Lindenthal.

7 p. m. to 10 p. m.—W. Wickert, L. H. Brooks.

10 p. m. to 1 a. m. — Robert Deo, H. C. Kamrath.

Saturday

J. S. Back, captain, 374.

1 a. m. to 4 a. m.—J. Edick, George Grab.

VAN WALT TO SPEAK

Marquette — Dr. Harry Van Walt, noted Dutch journalist and lecturer, will speak in Marquette April 19, it was announced Saturday by Ralph Sheehan, program chairman of the Marquette Lions club, which is sponsoring the lecture.

Sheehan said the lecture hall has not been chosen, but announcement of further details will be made later.

Auxiliary to Coast Guard To Have Its Feminine Aides Too

Even the Coast Guard Auxiliary is to have its feminine contingent, placing it on full par with the other services, Dr. Harvey Jorgenson, of Marinette, Wis., captain of the Third division, of which Escanaba flotilla is a part, disclosed here Sunday evening upon a visit to the local unit.

As yet no name has been officially attached to the C. G. Auxiliary counterpart of the Waacs, Waves, Marinettes and Spars, but already they are much in evidence in Miami, Fla., appearing there in natty uniforms of which the noteworthy feature—you've guessed correctly—is SLACKS!

Just returned from a trip to Florida in which he inspected Coast Guard Auxiliary and temporary reservist activities in the Seventh Naval district, Dr. Jorgenson made his second surprise visit of inspection to the Escanaba flotilla. He congratulated the group on its growth and improvement of its drill since his last visit.

"In Florida they have much bigger enrollments in the Auxiliaries," he said, "and the temporary reserve has been active much longer than in the Chicago district. The need for additional enlistments brought out the women's auxiliary organization and I saw many of them working right beside the men, aboard the boats. They attend the navigation classes and are competent 'seawomen' and they treasure their opportunity to give this sort of service as opposed to the class of work relegated to the woman's auxiliaries of the other services.

"On returning from Florida I talked to Lieut. Comm. Paul Date, in Chicago, and suggested that a women's auxiliary in the Chicago district of the C. G. Auxiliary would not be a bad idea, but he did not seem very enthusiastic over it."

Dr. Jorgenson said that in the Seventh district the temporary reserve is far behind the Chicago district units in its educational program, probably because the members have been too busy with active duty in its anti-submarine patrol. He sketched briefly to the Escanaba group what these duties were, much of it strategic information, and then he stressed the necessity for increasing enlistment here in view of the strategic necessities.

"No one needs to fear this service," said Dr. Jorgenson, "because the individual is given every consideration. Officers of the Coast Guard have been instructed that since the service is purely volunteer, without pay, every consideration must be given the individual with regard to requirements of his business or professional occupation."

Tonight at Terrace Gardens barracks the auxiliary, with members of the Coast Guard port detail and others will hold the second meeting of its new navigation class under Chief Boatswain's Mate Floyd Derosia. A study of the magnetic compass and its correction is scheduled.

Health Clinics Are Planned Thursday

A pre-school health clinic will be held at the Sovey School, Flat Rock, Thursday, April 8, at 9:30 a. m., and at the Carroll School in Flat Rock Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Dr. M. A. Elstein, director of the county health department, will conduct the clinic.

Immunization and vaccination of pre-school children, nine months to five years of age, is planned at this clinic. Parents of children who will enter school next fall are particularly urged to bring their children to the clinics.

Harlow W. Maffett Dies In Rhinelander

Harlow Ward Maffett, 62, of Rhinelander, Wis., who was formerly associated with the Diamond Pole and Piling company here, died early Saturday morning at St. Mary's hospital in Rhinelander, where he had been a patient for the past ten days.

Mr. Maffett was conservation manager of the Equitable Reserve association, of Neenah, up to the time of his death. He owned a lumber company with offices in Milwaukee and Chicago for 18 years prior to his connection with the insurance association and before that was employed by the Stevens Jarvis Lumber company in Eau Claire for 10 years.

He was born in Hutchinson, Minn., Oct. 10, 1880, and married Ina Pearl Strickland in Albuquerque, N. M., in 1916. He was a member of the Elks' club for the last 25 years and was also a member of the Lions' club of Milwaukee.

His wife's brother, Frank Strickland, died last week in Albuquerque N. M.

Mr. Maffett is survived by his widow, his mother, Mrs. J. A. Maffett, of Oshkosh; eight sisters, Mrs. Minnie Kelsey, of Wecoma, Ore., Mrs. Edith Bonney, of Woodburn, Ore., Mrs. Cora Moore, of Portland, Ore., Mrs. Mae Cain, of Oshkosh, Mrs. Marvel Speirs, of New London, Mrs. Maude Byrne, of Chippewa Falls, Mrs. Florence Hagna, of Cameron, and Mrs. Ruth Hoffman, of Rhinelander; and two brothers, Bert, of Seattle, Wash., and Alvin, of Minneapolis.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Hildebrand funeral home with the Rev. Fr. Clyde Miller, pastor of St. Augustine's Episcopal church, officiating.

The body was taken to Hutchinson, Minn., for burial.

Taxpayers Are Booted Around By Government

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington— All partits concerned must bear blame for the breakdown in tax legislation.

This breakdown is a serious reflection on the competency of both our treasury department and our ways and means committee. They have, between them, booted the taxpayers around. They have made political footballs of us.

Clapper

For a year it has been obvious that the extremely high tax rates made necessary by the war required a revision of the 30-year-old method of paying income taxes the year after the income was received. Only theorists and muleheaded prima donnas questioned the practical need of getting on a pay-as-you-earn basis.

It also has been obvious for a year that a dangerous excess of purchasing power was coming and that not only heavy war-bond purchases but forced savings or tax collection at the source were going to be necessary. The country is short of goods. We must therefore keep ourselves money-poor, short of ready cash.

All this is beyond argument, except to those looking for votes at any price.

Certainly a majority of the house was ready to act favorably. The close vote a few days ago, when the house was within 17 votes of adopting a version of the Ruml plan to place taxes on a current basis, said plainly that congress is ready to act if the experts and the committee leaders specializing in these matters will get together.

The administration is providing obstruction but not much leadership. A current collection plan would have been adopted if the administration had not used every resource to kill it. The treasury experts who fought the one positive effort—the Ruml plan— did not produce an acceptable alternative.

Likewise the ways and means committee divided and helped to make action impossible at this time. There was not enough leadership and adaptibility on both sides to find a common ground that would command a majority vote for some kind of bill. An issue which the was has made a pressing matter of sound home-front management has been politicalized.

Now the aged chairman of the ways and means committee, tired, bitter, befuddled, is taking a vacation. It will be months before anything can be done.

That means a general state of confusion and uncertainty for many months. The treasury is now launching the biggest war-loan drive in our history. Yet nobody knows how much money will be taken out in a withholding tax before the year is over. Or whether taxpayers will have to double up in paying all of their current taxes while having part of next year's taxes withheld at the source. How can anyone pledge himself to buy bonds up to the hilt when he doesn't know how much money he will have after taxes?

Nobody is complaining because taxes are high. But the uncertainty at this late date is inexcusable. Taxpayers are willing to pay, but Washington is unable to decide how and in what manner taxes shall be paid.

So Washington throws up its hands and goes along operating in the Second World War under the antiquated method instituted 30 years ago when we first began the income tax and when only a handful of millionaires were affected. Now 40 million people will pay income tax. Many will pay 20 per cent, 30 per cent, 40 per cent and 50 per cent of their earnings.

But the treasury and house ways and means committee can't get together sufficiently to adopt any improvement to meet the exceptional war conditiones. Washington will continue to send a tax collector around in a horse and buggy to collect last year's taxes.

That is close to incompetency. It is all the more depressing because the function of raising revenue is one that the constitution especially gave to the care of congress, with especial responsibility to the house. Members ought to get a new committee that could give them an acceptable bill regardless of the treasury and regardless of politics.

Rotary, Kiwanis Clubs Hear Talks On War Financing

The greatest non-military campaign of the spring offensive begins April 12, the day of the opening of the second war bond drive to raise 13 billion dollars, Ernest Pearce, Marquette, district drive chairmen of the 9th federal reserve district, told Rotarians and guests at yesterday's meeting. Bert Hadley of Marquette also spoke on the same topic at the Kiwanis meeting.

Americans must abandon the attitude of complacency, they warned their audiences. It's no time for picnics, and everything must be called off in favor of the war in order to preserve our American freedoms they said.

Delta County's quota to raise during the 18 day drive is $572,000 with Escanaba's share being $300,000. This means that every family in the county must purchase $75 worth of Bonds over and above regular pay roll deductions and the 5 percent Victory Tax. This is a per capita purchase of $20 for every man, woman and child in Delta County.

The speakers gave banks credit for successfully oversuscribing the nine billion dollar drive held last December. In that drive there were only 350,000 individual subscribers, with the banks buying over eight billion of the total amount raised.

They stressed the necessity of everyone investing in this drive to give to the limit. The boys in the war are giving their lives while we at home can give our dollars to preserve the things for which they are fighting.

H. P. Lindsay was in charge of the Rotary meeting and introduced members and guests who will donate their time and effort to provide leadership and work in order that Delta County will successfully meet the quota of $572,000. Stanley Huntington introduced Mr. Hadley at the Kiwanis meeting.

William Warmington is district chairman and L. J. Jacobs, county chairman.

Luery is Promoted To Captain in U. S. Air Force Overseas

Mr. and Mrs. H. Luery of this city have received word that their son, Robert, who is serving overseas with the United States Army Air Forces, was promoted to the rank of captain on March 19.

Capt. Luery was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the University of Michigan in 1939. He has been on extended active duty in the air corps since early 1941, having served at Hamilton Field, March Field, and Muroc Bomb and Gunnery Range, Calif., and Will Rogers Field, Okla., before going to his present overseas air station.

This is his second promotion since leaving the states. Capt. Luery was among the first air corps contingents to sail in convoy shortly after war was declared.

ARMY POLICE IN CCC CAMPS

Battalion Is Assigned Near Iron River For Training

Iron River—A battalion of Military Police will soon move into the abandoned CCC camps at James lake, Paulding and Bonifas for training.

First Lieut. G. C. Calhoun, public relations officer for the unit, and Captain Anthony D. Cone were in the city yesterday.

The normal complement of the former CCC camps is 200 men each.

Servicemen's and USO committees will entertain the soldiers on leave. A servicemen's center, similar to the unit provided for the Second division on winter maneuvers, many be set up here.

The Army motor transport training school at Watersmeet will be abandoned next week, the officer in charge announced yesterday. A large development program is in progress at Camp Norrie, in Gogebic county. It has no connection with the Military Police training to be conducted at the Bonifas, Paulding and James lake camps.

250 WAAC'S ARRIVE

Sault Ste. Marie—Two hundred and thirty Auxiliaries and 20 officers of WAAC will arrive in Sault Ste. Marie by special train at 6:30 tonight, it was announced today by Lt. Col. W. C. Bechtold, commanding the Fort Brady service command.

The WAAC's will be greeted by a Fort Brady band and officers of the district. They will be attached to Col. Bechtold's service command for duty in the Sault Ste. Marie Military Area.

Bulldozing That North Africa Mud

Next to beating the enemy, allies' toughest job in North Africa is whipping muddy roads and airfields into shape for use by trucks and planes. Here a big bulldozer moves mass of mud near highway.

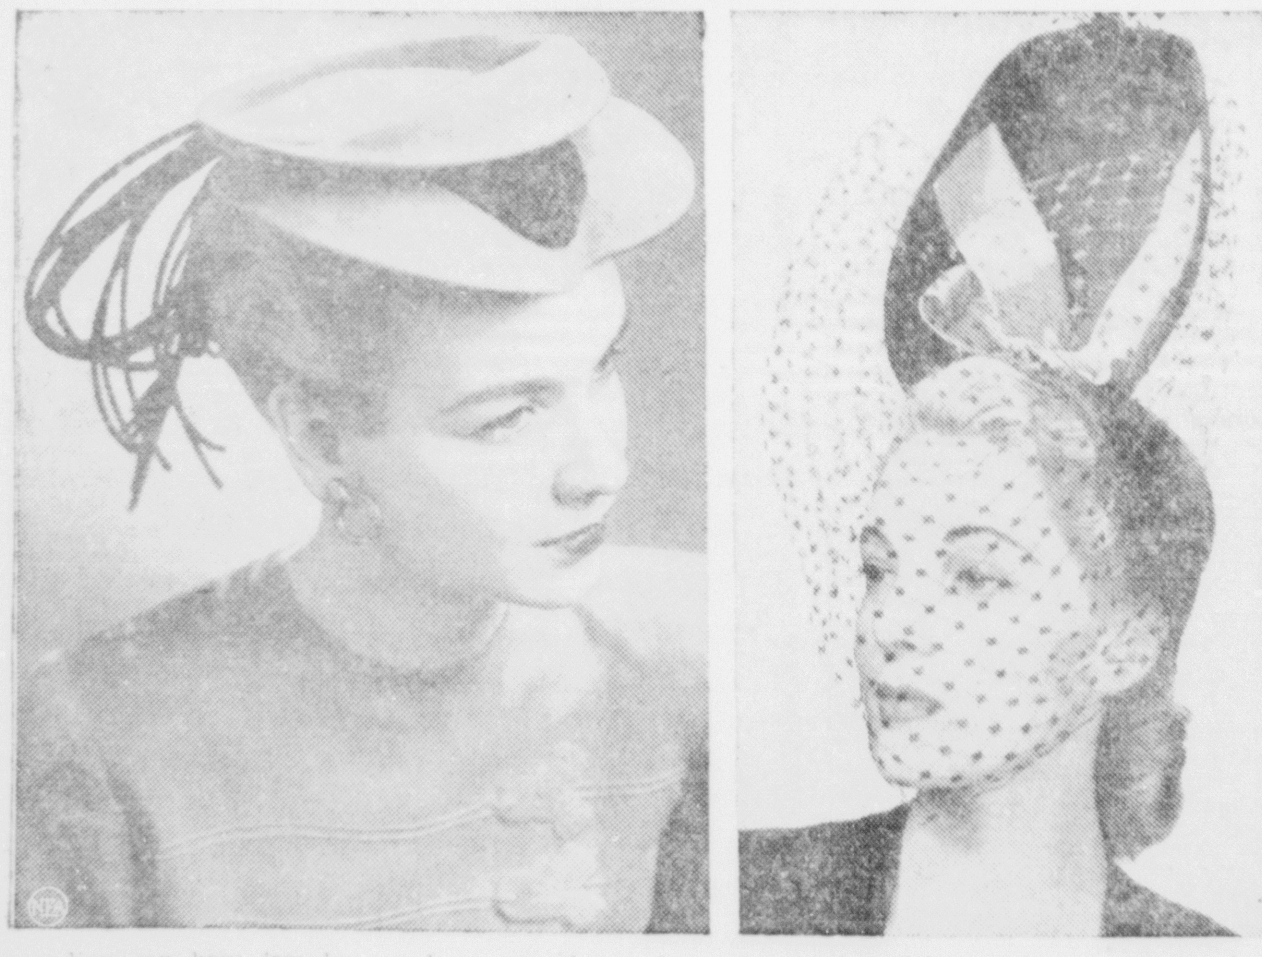
Low and High In Hat Fashion's Tide



You can have 'em low—and you can have 'em high, this spring—and both kinds of bonnets will be right in style as evidenced by the pair of millinery fashion inspirations pictured above. The one at left is a charming double-decker of Sally blue felt, the crown being a little hat in itself, set on a sweetheart brim. Black straw cording forms a many-looped bow and streamers for decoration at the back. Of course, if you want to go "high hat," you can have a topper like that at right, reminiscent of the Empire mode. Of navy blue felt, it's trimmed with an upside-down madonna blue velvet bow. The high, shell-shaped brim is attached to a little cap, making an effective adjunct to the chignon coiffure.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

This is wartime and in wartime whether or not men like the idea—women at home wear the pants.

That is why all the fuss over slacks is so silly and beside the point. The most recent peeve against pants worn by women received an outlet when a Memphis, Tenn., husband slashed his wife's slacks into ribbons to keep her from wearing them.

It doesn't do any good for men to get outraged over the pants-wearing fad of today. They might as well stop paying attention to it.

For women are becoming the men of their families—as their men go to war. And the pants-wearing bug is just an outward expression of women's new role.

It isn't anything for the men to get alarmed about. They want women to do their work while they are gone and to assume their responsibilities.

If in doing so the women feel the necessity for getting into their clothes—there's no harm done. Not even if they get into pants while their men are still at home—just to feel in style.

They may not look as well as they did in skirts. And they may tend to swagger a little, when they walk down the street in pants.

Fad Won't Last

But that is harmless enough. Men haven't any lawful right to reserve swaggering for their own sex.

The fad of women wearing pants won't last. Just as soon as the war is over and the men start coming home, the girls and women will be glad to let them wear the pants for the family — and take over all the responsibility that phrase implies.

Until then, let women wear pants if it makes them feel important and self-sufficient. It hurts nothing but the egos of a few domineering males.

Hollywood Column

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Trying to ignore the war in Hollywood these days is like attempting to hide a Flying Fortress in a telephone booth. It just can't be done.

Since Victory gardening, even the town's favorite question, "What do you know?" has changed to "What do you grow?" and "What's cooking?" has long since become, "What's freezing?"

You start out in the morning looking for romantic gossip, gags and sidelights on glamor and you wind up talking to Ida Lupino about her recently acquired hog farm. You start out on a tour of the night spots and everything folds up at the 12 o'clock curfew. And on your way home you meet Carole Landis' mother, and Tallulah Bankhead's ex-leading man, Glen Anders, on their way to join the swing shifters at North American.

Even the songwriters have forgotten all the words that rhyme with moon and June. Now it's jeep and G. I. and "Rosie B-r-r-r the Riveter."

BACKSTAGE TOO

So you try the sets, hoping to see a line of chorus girls, or one of those camera-scorching love scenes, and you trip over dead Nazis and Japs and find 350 soldiers peeling spuds for "This Is the Army." On Columbia studio's set of "Somewhere in Sahara" there's J. Carol Naish in a tattered uniform of an Italian soldier making a speech which should win him the rhetorical plum for 1943.

A fellow Nazi prisoner is trying to goad Naish into killing his American captors and escaping for the glory of Hitler. "Hitler," Naish tells the Nazi, "digs holes in your heads. He takes out all that is good and puts in his own 10 commandments—'steal from thy neighbor,' 'kill thy neighbor,' 'cheat thy neighbor.' But Hitler don't dig holes in my head. Denounce me. Tell your Gestapo to put my wife in prison. Take my bambino and tear out the eyes. Tell your Gestapo— tell your Fuehrer, I won't kiss the hand that beats me and lick the boot that kicks me. Tell your Hitler—eet ees for men like him that MY God created Hell!"

But when you hear dialog like that you're proud of Hollywood, and you don't miss the sweater girls.

IT'S EVERYWHERE!

If anyone has a gag NOT about the war, Bob Hope must have one. You grab him by the lapel. "The plane," Hope is muttering, "was such a rattletrap that when we banked over camp the Gremlins were holding hands to keep the wings from falling off."

So you go to a cocktail party in Beverly Hills and before the evening is over the ladies haul out splints and bandages and practice their Red Cross lessons.

With nothing else to do, you pick up a new script of a 20th Century-Fox picture and on the cover you see printed in black bold letters, "Less Shooting Here Means More Shooting Over There. Save Film!"

See what we mean by trying to ignore the war in Hollywood?

Miss Corcoran is Now Stationed at Camp Ruston, La.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, April 5 (AP)—Rail and industrial stocks hit peaks for one to six years in today's market as buyers unleashed the heaviest buying orders in 15 months.

The ticker tape speeded up at the start and, except for a few slow-downs on profit taking periods, activity was pronounced throughout. Gains ranged from major fractions to more than 2 points and favorites generally closed at or near the day's top figures.

Brokers found a combination of reasons for the strong recovery move which got under way about a year ago and, with few interruptions, has continued, ever since. Mainly, credit was given to the bullish war news and the revival of the speculative and investment urge predicated on sharply expanding idle funds. Efforts to hedge against threatened inflation still were viewed as a factor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today rose .6 of a point to 49.6, highest since May 9, 1940. The 15-rail composite touched its best level since October, 1937, with a jump of 1.1 points to 26.2. The market was one of the broadest in some time, 987 individual issues being traded. Of these 703 were up, 131 down and 153 unchanged. Transfers totalled 2,647,920 shares, largest since December 29, 1941. They compared with 1,659,140 last Friday.

Radio Corp. was the liveliest performer of the day, jumping 1½ to 10½, partly in further reflection of the company's plan to redeem its outstanding "B" stock.

Well in front were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Rolling Mill, Chrysler, Public Service of N. J., Western Union, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Oliver Farm, Anaconda, Alaska Juneau, Du Pont, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Pepsi-Cola, Distillers Corp. and American Airlines.

Ahead in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Creole Petroleum, American Gas, Lake Shore, Midvale, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Pioneer Gold. The aggregate here was 475,895 shares versus 345,310 in the preceding full session.

x—New 1943 high.

New York, April 5 (AP)—Railroad bonds advanced to new high levels since 1937 in active dealings in today's market. Utilities shared generously in the upturn and other domestic groups maintained a steady trend.

U. S. governments strengthened late in the session on small sales. Treasury 2 7-8s of '60-'55 advanced 18:32 of a point to 109.29 and the 2½ of '53-'49 gaine 5/32 ta 106.11. Dealers reported activity in this field was concentrated on plans for the second war loan drive scheduled to start next Monday.

Corporate loans advancing fractions to 2 points and in some cases more included some bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Central of New Jersey, St. Paul, Childs Co., Hudson Coal, Illinois Central, International Telephone, Katy, Missouri Pacific, Pacific Telephone, Pennsylvania Power & Light and Western Pacific. Scattered losers included some loans of the Southern Pacific, Lehigh Valley and International Great Northern.

Guadalcanal Diary

Based on the Book-of-the-Month

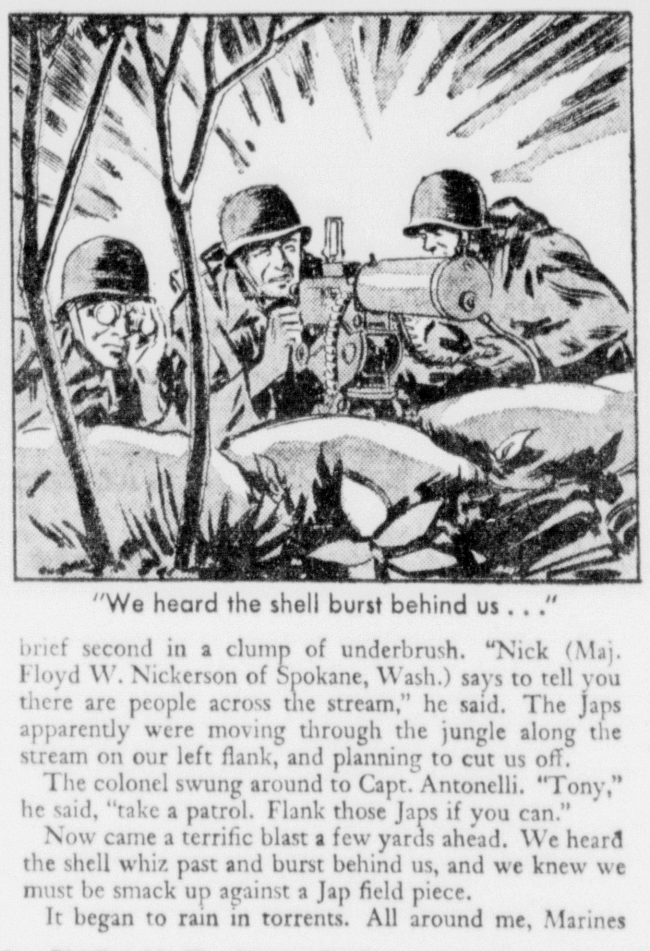
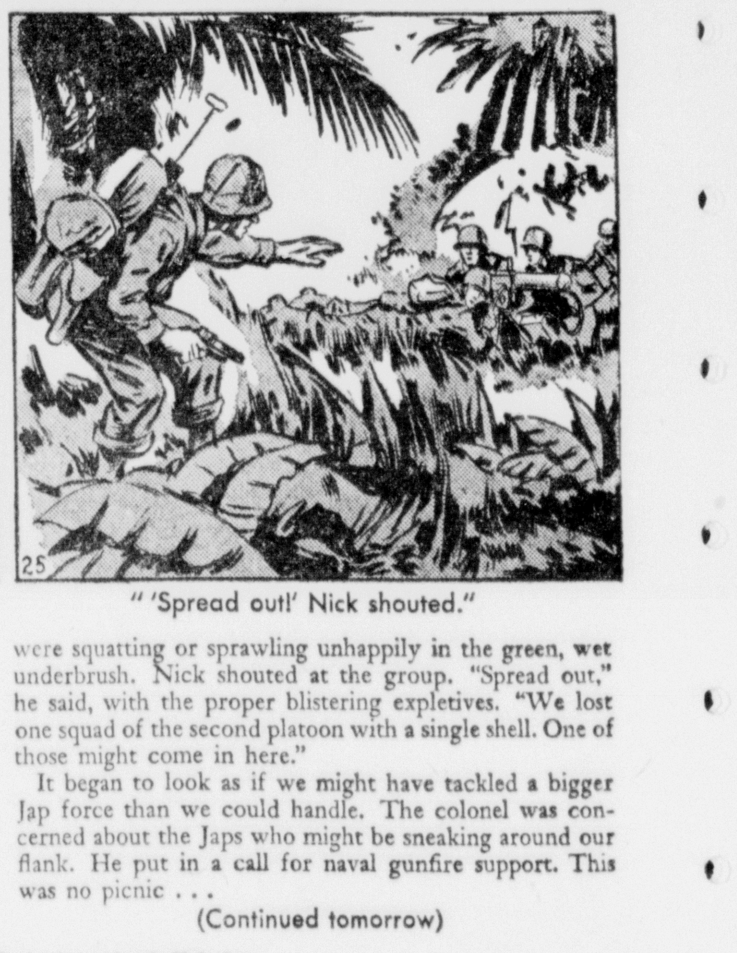
"We were ready for a struggle as we dashed for shore."



"We heard the shell burst behind us . . ."



" 'Spread out!' Nick shouted."

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8—We set out yesterday afternoon for our attack on the Japs at Taivu Point, spent the night on our transports, and shoved off toward shore this morning. Just as we were starting, came a fortunate happenstance—a convoy of American cargo ships passed very close to us. The Japs, seeing the combined armada, got the impression of a mass assault. And many of them ran. But we had no way of knowing this as we dashed for shore. We were ready for a struggle, and puzzled when there was no hail of fire from the jungle.

Shortly after eight o'clock, we made our first contact with the Japs. I saw our people running, and followed a group to the beach. A row of Jap landing boats was lying on the sand ahead; and amidst the boats, a group of men in brown uniforms—Japs.

"Red Mike" (as the Raiders call their red-headed colonel) gave the order to open fire. The machine guns began rattling. Now the Japs were answering. I heard the familiar flat crack of the .25 rifle, and the repetition of the sound in long bursts from light machine guns. The Jap guns stood out in the chorus like a tenor in a quartet.

A runner came up to the colonel, who was sitting for a brief second in a clump of underbrush. "Nick (Maj. Floyd W. Nickerson of Spokane, Wash.) says to tell you there are people across the stream," he said. The Japs apparently were moving through the jungle along the stream on our left flank, and planning to cut us off.

The colonel swung around to Capt. Antonelli. "Tony," he said, "take a patrol. Flank those Japs if you can."

Now came a terrific blast a few yards ahead. We heard the shell whiz past and burst behind us, and we knew we must be smack up against a Jap field piece.

It began to rain in torrents. All around me, Marines were squatting or sprawling unhappily in the green, wet underbrush. Nick shouted at the group. "Spread out," he said, with the proper blistering expletives. "We lost one squad of the second platoon with a single shell. One of those might come in here."

It began to look as if we might have tackled a bigger Jap force than we could handle. The colonel was concerned about the Japs who might be sneaking around our flank. He put in a call for naval gunfire support. This was no picnic . . .

DARK JUNGLES

—By John C. Fleming and Lois Eby—

CHAPTER I

"Night sailing," murmured Lila. The tall, dark girl in the fur coat dug her gloved hand deeper through the curve of her fiance's arm and strained her eyes toward the blurry outlines of the freighter at the dock. "I used to love the words. It meant crowds, music, confetti, champagne . . ."

Barry Fielding tightened his arm against her hand as he paused to let some ship's officers by. "Now it means," he answered as they moved on toward the gangplank, "stealth, silence, darkness, fog—the kind of fog they once canceled sailings for. That's what war does—turns the world upside down."

The girl was pulling a letter from her smart handbag. She gave it to the officer blocking her way. When he had read it, he stepped aside with grudging respect and she went aboard with Barry. They found their way along the dark, wet deck to his small stateroom, carefully shutting the door and pulling down the blinds before turning on the lights. Barry was grinning with amusement. "You went to a lot of trouble, Lila, for five minutes on board."

She was giving the cabin a quick scrutiny, her lustrous, dark eyes sharp, her slim, tailored figure taut and exacting as a sergeant on inspection. She bent to pull back the covers on the bunk and count the blankets, to test the faucet, to open the cupboards, before her skeptical anxiety melted in a smile. "I just wanted to make sure you were going to be comfortable. I've heard some rather sordid stories about wartime travel and I thought I might be able to do some adjusting. But this isn't bad—not bad at all." She moved closer to him and added softly, "You will be careful, darling?"

Barry's grin widened as his arms went about her. "About being uncomfortable?" he said.

"Of course not. Please—this isn't any time for joking."

"You're telling me."

"I wish I had time to do your unpacking for you."

"I've been doing it for years. One more trip probably won't hurt me."

"You'll write every day?"

"No. As often as I can."

"If you need me, wire. I'll be down on the next plane."

"With the New York police force and the State Militia, eh?"

"Darling, I wish you'd be serious."

* * *

They walked back on deck, drawn by a sudden commotion at the foot of the gangplank. Officers and plain-clothes men were dispersing a noisy farewell party on the dock. White shirts and evening gowns glimmered through the fog. A girl was running up the gangplank, laughter, shouts, and the blare of toy horns pursuing her.

"There's your confetti," Barry said to Lila, as a small twist of it sailed past them, unwinding—a lonely sliver of gaiety.

The girl had reached the deck now. Out of breath and laughing, she whirled to stand beside Barry at the rail. Suddenly cupping her hands, she called back,

"Where's my aloha?"

A piping horn belligerently started a chorus. It was silenced. The girl at the rail shrieked with laughter. A white shirt front leaned precariously over the water dividing boat from wharf.

"Come on back and finish the party!"

"Come and get me!" the girl taunted. She screamed with mirth again at the commotion her challenge caused at the gangplank.

Lila moved back from the rail. "Of all the disgusting . . ." she murmured. She started off with Barry. But as they passed the girl, an official was holding a flashlight on her papers. The beam cut past her hair—honey-gold hair, beautifully kept. Lila stopped short and took another look. The features below the hair were molded delicate as a cameo . . . and the slender white line of throat rose from a collar of sable!

"I beg your pardon." Lila moved regally up to the girl as the officer left. "I'm Lila Harrison. This is my fiance, Barry Fielding, who's sailing. Are you making the trip?"

Barry could see the blonde inspecting the tall, smart silhouette of his fiancee. Her voice was heavier than Lila's and seemed rough in contrast.

"You sound a little scared," she said surprisingly. Abruptly she turned a small flashlight up and down Barry's tall figure, holding it a moment on his face. She gave a gay whistle. "You do have reason—plenty. Thanks for the introduction, Miss Harrison. I'm Allison Topping. Be seeing you—Barry!" Then she turned back to continue her laughing goodbyes to the persistently faithful crowd on the wharf.

Barry was thankful the darkness hid his grin. So this was Allison Topping! He'd seen her pictures, of course. Debutante. Darling of cafe society. Spoiled brat. But quick on the uptake. He could feel Lila's rising fury. He was surprised she didn't leave. Instead she moved back up to the rail. Her voice was smooth as satin.

"Are you going to Cuba, Miss Topping?"

The girl finished a shouted invitation to the white shirt front swaying over the wate's edge, then turned back to Lila. "Great Godfrey, no!" she cried. "I'm broke. I'm going to Guatemala and raise chewing gum!"

This was too much. Lila stiffened and turned away. But Barry pulled back, troubled. He said, "You don't mean that, do you?"

He could feel the Topping girl smiling at him. She said in a purring voice, deliberately goading Lila, "Sure, I do, Handsome. My papa left me a chicle plantation."

Lila was pulling his arm impatiently but Barry held his ground. He said with sharp urgency, "Have you ever been to Guatemala, Miss Topping?"

"No," said the blonde girl lightly.

"Take my advice, please," Barry said curtly. "Don't go!"

Lila's pull on his arm relaxed. She moved back with sudden interest. The blonde's attention, too, was caught.

"Why not?" she demanded.

"You won't be able to stand it," Barry told her. "You're not the type. Whoever advised you to go ought to be horsewhipped."

"No one advised me," said the blonde. "What's wrong with a chicle plantation?"

"Nothing—if you like prostrating heat, malaria, scorpions, bushmasters . . ."

"Snakes? Stop!" the blonde screamed.

They were ready to lower the gangplank. An officer tapped Lila's arm. "Everyone ashore who's going ashore."

Lila said to the girl with urgent warmth, "Barry's right. He's been there. I'll help you get your luggage off the boat."

The blonde took a quick breath of decision. Then she laughed. "That's too kind of you," she murmured, a flick of malicious laughter in her voice. "I am an awful scared cat . . . but I think I'll go. Somehow, I feel so protected with Barry on board."

There was a minute when Barry was sure his fiancee was about to attempt murder.

APRIL DRAFT GROUP REPORTS

Men Leave Today For Final Physicals; Meet At 10 a.m.

Schoolcraft county's selective service group for April will leave here today for the induction station where they will be given final physical examinations on Wednesday before induction into the armed forces. The group leaving this month is below previous quotas and consists of married men without children and some 18-year-olds, the local draft board office reported Monday.

Local draft board registrants called to report with the April group will meet at the draft board office in the Legion cottage at 10 o'clock this morning. The men will have lunch together and then leave before noon for the induction station. They will return here Wednesday afternoon.

Under present selective service regulations those accepted for the armed services have their choice of the branch they are to enter provided that they qualify physically for the division they select. They are given a week's furlough as reserves if they desire it otherwise they will enter service immediatly.

Rod Linderoth Is Accepted for V-5 Aviation Training

Rodney Linderoth of Manistique, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Linderoth of Flint, was sworn into the navy under the V-5 flight training program Thursday at Chicago, the first of the present high school class to be accepted for service under that program. Rod previously passed mental tests at Escanaba given by a cadet selection board and went to Chicago for his physical examinations. He is now transferred to inactive status pending the completion of his high school course this June. At present his rating is apprentice seaman, V-5. When called to start his training he will be classified as an aviation cadet, going into pre-flight training for 12 weeks before starting his basic flight course.

Pvt. Fred Watson arrived here Sunday from Florida, where he is stationed, to spend his furlough with Mrs. Watson of Cooks and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson of Gulliver.

KOREA TOPIC OF ADDRESS

Dr. Berneta Block To Speak Thursday At Lutheran Church

Experiences in Korea will form the interesting material for an address which Dr. Berneta Block, director of the Alger-Schoolcraft health department, will give at a program sponsored jointly by the Women's Missionary society and the Bethany society Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Zion Lutheran church.

Dr. Block left Korea shortly after the Peiping incident in 1937 but her insight into the minds of the Orientals gleaned from 10 years service as a midical missionary who traveled in the area provides material for an excellent talk. She has been a guest speaker at Rotary and gave an interesting address at that time.

The evening's program will include a number of musical selections in addition to the talk. A social hour will be held following the program and refreshments will be served.

The program follows:

Scripture reading and prayer, Rev. P. S. Nestander.

Selections, "The Last Song," Rogers; Alleluia from Motet, "Exsultate, Jubilate," Mozart, Ladies' Octette.

Talk on Korea, Dr. Berneta Block.

Offertory, "Spring Song," Mendelssohn, Mrs. Harry Ahlstrom.

Song, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," Audience.

Benediction-Threefold Amen.

DRIVE FOR RED CROSS ENDING

Cash Collections Turned In Total $3,937.50; Goal Is $5,200

With collections still coming in, Schoolcraft county's Red Cross war fund campaign is still expected to be $700 short of the $5,200 goal which was set for it. Total receipts up to the present time indicate that the drive will reach $4,500. Further contributions are being invited, however, and those who have not been contacted so far in the campaign or who wish to increase their donation may send it to the chairman of the war fund drive, Miss Helen McLaughlin, or turn it over to any of the solicitors in their areas.

Last week the war fund was swelled $200 by the contribution of that amount by the Manistique Pulp and Paper company and the Manistique Light and Power company. Collections of $278 from the Inland Lime and Stone company employees are still to be received and with $4 in cash now turned in, contributions from the employees there will total $282. Contributions at the Inland company's office here was $69

The Michigan Dimension company contributed $100 to the drive and employees added another $84. The Manistique Tool and Manufacturing company also made a contribution of $100 and employees there donated $44 in addition. Collections at the Manistique Pulp and Paper company totalled $92.05 from employees in addition to the company's $100 contribution. Frank Heinz of the Heinz Lumber company made the donation of $75. Germfask and Doyle townships each have contributed $25 to the fund.

Cash collections in the drive on hand Monday morning totalled $3,937.50.

Motorists Urged To Drive With Care in Breakup

Manistique and Schoolcraft county motorists were urged to drive carefully during the spring breakup here yesterday by Sheriff John M. Hewitt, local administrator of war transportation, who pointed out the need to conserve automobiles as well as protect the roads. Careless driving on bad roads may do serious damage to cars and trucks and especially to tires, he warns.

"The spring breakup may start anytime," Mr. Hewitt stated, "and when it arrives we may expect bad road conditions for a period of weeks. Rough and rutted roads may damage both tires and vehicle and getting mired and spinning your wheels in gravelly mud is even worse.

"If you plan a trip that will take you over dirt roads, it is advisable to find out about road conditions and to avoid bad roads if possible. If you have a choice of routes, take the one in the best condition even if it is a trifle longer. If load limits are posted, observe them, because to attempt to get through with a heavier load may do irreparable damage to your car and to the roads, which also must last for the duration. If you must drive on bad roads, drive carefully. By driving slowly, you can pick your way over the better portions of the road and avoid the worst ruts and chuck holes.

"Just keep in mind," Mr. Hewitt said, "that no new cars or trucks are being made and that your rationing board will not listen to your pleas for new tires if your old ones show signs of neglect."

News From Men In The Service

Adds Another Stripe — PFC. Clifford Rice now is wearing a corporal's stripe. He entered the U. S. Army in August, 1942, and is stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla.

In CPT Course — Robert F. Hastings, son of Mrs. E. J. Hastings, Oak street, is now stationed at Bismarck Junior college, Bismarch, N. D., where he is getting training in an eight-week elementary course under the civilian pilot training program. He will later be given courses for a like period in advanced flying school and study blind and cross-country flying before completing a five-month training before assignment to service in the air force. Hastings was sworn into service in December of last year but was not ordered to report to start his training until March 15.

Becomes Private First Class—Pvt. Jack B. Messer has been promoted to the rank of private, first class at Stockton, Calif., where he is stationed. He was inducted into the army air force on February 117, 1943, and is now attending school in Calofirnia.

Return To Great Lakes — Andrew R. Olmsted, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Olmsted, and Leslie Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Moore, both of whom have the rating of seaman, second class, in the navy, left Saturday to return to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., after spending their furloughs here. Olmsted will be assigned to aviation radioman training on his return and Moore will get the regular radioman's training.

Wins Promotion — Karl M. Herrmann has been promoted to corporal and has been transferred from Camp Campbell to Fort Knox. He is now battalion clerk.

Gets Army Release—Harold A. Jewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Jewett, returned Friday from Fort Bragg, N. C., after being released from army service as being over 38 years old. He had been in the service for six months and was employed by the Inland Lime and Stone company before entering the army. He expects to enter war plant work now.

NEW TEACHERS TO BE HIRED

Two New Instructors Engaged; Six More Vacancies

At least eight new teachers will be required to fill the teaching staff for the Manistique city school system for next year, it was revealed Friday night by Superintendent A. F. Hall at a meeting of the school board. Two of the vacancies have been filled. During the meeting the members of the school board agreed that if they are unable to get satisfactory teachers they will use local residents who are qualified teachers but are not now doing that kind of work.

Miss Temmy Solom of Iron Mountain, third and fourth grade teacher at the Central school; Miss Barbara Graham, art instructor in the high school; Miss Viola Mattila, seventh and eighth grade arithmetic instructor; and Miss Dorothy Kraschinsky, of Milwaukee, instructor for the special class for the deaf, do not plan to return here next year. In addition, Miss June Pfau of Tower City, N. D., English 11 and 12 teacher, enlisted in the WAVES during the year; Miss Thaddea Dunneback of Marquette, home economics instructor, joined the WAACS, and Miss Ann Suter Ganster of Marshfield, Wis., left to study for work under the army as radio instructor. An instructor for commercial arithmetic and assembly also is needed because of the changes made when Oscar Wassberg and D. C. Austin left the school system for other work. At present vacancies on the staff are being filled by substitute teachers.

Now hired for the coming new school year is Miss Helen Moritz of Cicero, Ill., and Miss Helen Hastings of Manistique. Miss Moritz will receive her degree this year at an Illinois junior college. She has majored in English and will be in charge of English 11 and 12 classes. Miss Hastings is the daughter of Mrs. E. J. Hastings, Oak street, and is a graduate of St. Scholastica at Duluth, Minn., where she received a bachelor of arts degree and majored in commercial education. She also did additional summer school work at the Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette. She was instructor in a Wisconsin school for a year and for the past two years has been a teacher at L'Anse. She returned to Manistique from there two weeks ago. Miss Hastings will be instructor in commercial arithmetic next year in addition to assembly.

Red Cross Tribute Thrills Film Fans

The motion picture industry's tribute to the work of the American Red Cross is now being shown at the Rialto Theatre in celebration of Red Cross week in conjunction with the rest of the nation's 17,000 theatres and is meeting with good response, according to Manager John P. Vogt.

Packed with thrills and containing considerable emotional appeal, the tribute was made under the auspices of the War Activities committee of the Motion Picture industry, which is sponsoring Red Cross week.

The tribute is called "Somewhere In This World" and it explains how the American Red Cross works among the armed forces of the country.

"Somewhere In This World" has been shown at every performance since April 1 and will continue to be shown through the last show on Wednesday, April 7.

OLD ARMY GAME—According to popular belief, 'passing the buck" is the old Army game but that title rightfully belongs to chess, which is truthfully an Army game and one so old that its origin has never been definitely established by historians. The game is at least 3300 years old, a fact established by the discovery of a chess set in the tomb of King Tut, who died in 1350 B. C. That discovery eliminated the contention of some historians that chess was invented by the game and the words "check" and "mate" are from the Arabic language, meaning "The king is dead."

WAR STRATEGY—The popularity of chess always expands in wartime because chess is primarily a military game. It is a fact that chess always has been most popular in militaristic nations. With the whole world today engaged in the greatest war of all time, chess interest has reached its greatest height in all its long history. The game teaches the value of the initiative, and as a brain developer, the game has no equal. It is a game in which even the buck private can imagine himself as a general mapping war strategy. And the best part of the whole thing, one doesn't have to learn a new set of rules every year such as football requires.

TOOLS OF WAR — Although chess is three centuries old, it has all of the modern implements of war, including an air force. The pawns are the infantry, the knights the air force since these are the only pieces that can jump over the enemy's lines. The rooks are the heavy artillery and the queen a mighty arsenal with motive power. The bishops are the light artillery. The king, like most kings ,is merely a stuffed shirt with little power of its own. It is, however, the enemy's sole objective.

POPULAR FALLACY — Because of misunderstanding and lack of knowledge of the game, the public is prone to consider chess as a game designed primarily for doddering old men or physical misfits—a game to turn to when you can do nothing else for relaxation. That is certainly an unfair and totally erroneous appraisal. In Milwaukee, for instance, the game is taught in the public schools and in the recreational centers. Thousands of Milwaukee youngsters play the game, some of them so well that they have actually defeated chess masters who come to Milwaukee regularly for exhibitions. Boys who soon will be going into military service can do themselves a lot of good by learning chess and the lessons it teaches.

HIT AND MISS—Marjorie Davies, director of the Ice Revue here the past winter, lost an opportunity to skate in the Ice Capades show recently because she is unable to skate without glasses . . . She was offered a tryout for the show but was forced to cancel when she learned that the show does not permit any of its cast to skate with glasses . . . She appeared in a Red Cross benefit show in Marquette shortly after leaving Escanaba . . . George Ceithaml, captain and quarterback of Michigan's 1942 football team has been awarded the Big Ten medal for outstanding athletic and scholastic proficiency.

FIRST SACKER COMING BACK

Bill McClaren Planning To Return To Tiger Training Camp

Evansville, Ind., April 5. (AP)—Word that rookie first baseman Bill McClaren, who unexpectedly left the Tiger camp last week, will report back to camp next Friday temporarily relieved Manager Steve O'Neill's player - shortage worries today.

With pitchers Hal Newhouser and Harold Manders conferring with their draft boards, the Detroit roster had dwindled down to 24 players, and a gain was a welcome change to Manager Steve who has seen only losses lately.

The Tigers enjoyed a day's rest from training today, after depleting the pitching staff in splitting a week-end series with the Chicago Cubs.

McClaren told Manager Jack Zeller he would leave his home in Dallas, Tex., on Wednesday. The 22-year-old recruit said business transactions required his presence at home, but professed a fear that he would be farmed out to Buffalo of the International league, with which Detroit has a working agreement. Zeller assurred him that Buffalo had three first sackers, even though the Bisons were short on talent, particularly in the outfield, where McClaren has had some experience.

Zeller left today on a tour of Indiana training bases in search of pitching talent, and intends to visit both St. Louis camps before returning to Briggs Stadium on Monday.

Montgomery Tunes Up For Title Fight

Philadelphia, April 5. (AP)—Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia's No. 1 lightweight contender, tuned up for his title bout next month with Beau Jack, by knocking out Roman Alvarez, New York, in 27 seconds of the fourth round before 10,000 at the Arena tonight.

The end came unexpectedly as the two came out for the fourth round of the scheduled 10-rounder. In close, Montgomery whipped over a left hook that jarred the 21-year-old native of Denver. Montgomery promptly let go a vicious right that landed flush on the jaw. Alvarez fell flat on his back and never stirred as Referee Matt Adgie tolled off the count.

Montgomery, a top-heavy 7 to 1 favorite, weighed 137 pounds to 135½ for Alvarez.

Theater Conducts Red Cross Salute

Munising, April 5 — Red Cross Week, a salute to the American Red Cross, will be celebrated at the Delft theatre for one week. The celebration began Sunday.

The local theatre is sponsoring this celebration in conjunction with the rest of the nation's 17,000 motion picture theatres which were organized for this work by the War Activities Committee of the Motion Picture industry. One of the features of the week will be the showing of a screen tribute to the Red Cross titled "Somewhere in This World," in which the commentary will be made by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker.

Each evening during the week contributions for the Alger county Red Cross war fund will be taken during an intermission in the program. Members of the Junior Red Cross and men from the Coast Guard station will assist in the collection of funds during the week.

Ice Revue Costumes Should Be Returned

Costumes from the 1943 Ice Revue which have not been returned or paid for are to be accounted for by Friday of this week, the Department of Parks and Recreation requested last night. Costumes or the money may be brought to the City Recreation Center any day except Saturday and Sunday from 3:30-5:30 or may be left at the Recreation office in the city garage building.

According to the usual agreement, costumes for which the material was furnished by the city may be either purchased or returned for future use. Costumes in this year's show are all priced at $2.00 each including American Rythm, Hula, Anchors Aweigh, and Trio of Grace. Most of the participants in solos and special numbers provided their own costumes.

Return of the WHACKS costumes is also requested as the suits are borrowed by the Recreation department and must be returned soon.

Escanaba Youths On Buckley Field Championship Team

Two Escanaba youths, Don Boucher and Alfred Breault, were members of the 913th Quartermasters basketball team which won the Buckley Field, Colorado championship the past season. Boucher is the son of Mrs. Mary Boucher, 1512 No. 15th avenue, and Breault is the son of Mrs. Julia Breault, 307 So. 11th street.

A picture of the winning team was published in the March 26 issue of the Buckley Armorer, official camp newspaper.

Frenck Lick, Ind., April 5 (AP) — Catcher Tom Turner of the Chicago White Sox, who has been bedded down several days with an attack of the flu, was up and around today, while Pitcher Thornton Lee, who twice has been hit with throat trouble, felt strong enough to give his left arm a workout.

LARGEST GOLD NUGGET

Largest gold nugget ever recorded weighed between 2250 and 2500 Troy ounces. It was named "Welcome Stranger" by its discoverer, who found it in a shallow rut near Moligul, Victoria, Australia, on Feb. 5, 1867.

Goat, kid, shark, snake, kangaroo, and many other skins are being increasingly used as uppers for women's shoes.

GRANADA TAKES TEAM HONORS

Skellenger And Sawyer Top City Doubles Tournament

The Granada's 2984 total withstood Sunday's attack and the Granada team won the team championship in the Escanaba bowling tournament with the Kiwanis No. 3 team second with 2947.

Bill Skellenger and Carl Sawyer topped the doubles with 1301, aided by a 520 count in one game, a new record. Sawyer smacked the pins for 279 in that game.

Nick Bink won the singles title with 674 and also had high individual single game with 254.

A few entries still remain in the doubles event and some changes may be possible in the first ten, but the team event and the singles event have already been completed.

Here And There In Major Loops

Wilmington, Del., April 5 (AP)—The Athletics failed today to get Shortstop Ellis Clary from Washington in an effort to complete the deal that sent Outfielder Bob Johnson to the Nats.

"I asked for Clary," Manager Connie Mack said. "But Clark Griffith said he figured on him for a regular and offered me several others instead who weren't acceptable."

Norfolk, Va., April 5 (AP)—The Washington Senators of the American league compelted a five-day stay here today by mauling the Norfolk naval air station, 10-4.

Ellis Clary, Washington third baseman, cracked a pair of doubles to lead the Senator batters.

Hershey, Pa., April 5 (AP) — Owner Bill Cox and Manager Bucky Harris, of the Phillies, were on the telephone again today trying to drum up more trades.

They were introduced yesterday to the time-honored characteristic of the Phillies—failing to hit in the pinches—as the Athletics took a 5-3 decision at Wilmington. The first four Phils to bat got two doubles, a single and a walk. This produced one run and left the sacks loaded with none out. Then came a strikeout and a double play.

Bloomington, Ind., April 5 (AP) —The Cincinnati Reds received word from the home office today that for the first time in years a few opening game tickets were available early in April.

A sell-out still is considered a certainty by Red officials, who said drafting of many fans and transportation difficulties accounted for the slowing of sales.

Ft. Hancock, N. J., April 5 (AP) —With Jim Turner, Lefty Russo and Ernie Bonham combining to pitch six-hit ball, the New York Yankees whipped the Ft. Hancock nine 7 to 2 for their second victory in three exhibition baseball games.

The only extra blow off the Yankee bats was a double by Joe Gordon in the seventh when the American league champs put together three of their hits with an error and base on balls to count three times.

Muncie, Ind., April 5 (AP)—Mayor John C. Hampton of Muncie, was almost swept off his feet today when the Pirates put on a sham riot just before the finish of a five-inning camp game, in which the rookies beat the regulars 2 to 1.

The players pretended to flare up when Hampton, acting as chief umpire, called out Johnny Barrett on strikes. They dashed to the astonished mayor, seized him and almost had the breath hugged out of him before he caught on to the fun.

Max Butcher and Bill Brandt held the regulars to four hits, one a double by Bob Elliott.

Brooklyn, April 5 (AP) —First Baseman Dolph Camilli and Third Baseman, or Shortstop, Arky Vaughan, two of the main power hitters, made their belated appearance at the Brooklyn Dodger offices today and lost no time in starting their tardy spring drill. They hustled out to Ebbets field this afternoon and put in a strenuous workout.

Lakewood, N. J., April 5 (AP)—Three members of the New York Giants today received notice from their local draft boards to report tomorrow for preliminary physical examination. They are Ray Berres, catcher; Sid Gordon, third baseman and Harry Feldman, pitcher. All are currently classified in 3-A.

French Lick, Ind., April 5 (AP) —Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs today received an invitation from Commissioner K. M. Landis to drop in at his office when he returns to Chicako to explain his uprising against Umpire Art Passarrella last week.

Wilson's shouts at Passarrella during a game with the White Sox were so spicily seasoned that the umpire thumbed him from the field.

The Cubs will take a first look at National league competition when they meet the Cincinnati Reds here tomorrow.

In the Old World, English sparrows have been eaten for centuries.

National Pro Football League Delegates Meet

BY DAVE HOFF

Chicago, April 5 (AP)—The National Football League requested delegates to its spring meeting to park their long faces outside the door tonight as they checked in for thre three-day parley which opens tomorrow.

Commissioner Elmer Layden said the sessions would be conducted on the "we can and will play football" theme unless investigations should prove conclusively the pro league can't weather the demands of selective service on player personnel.

"It's not going to be easy, I know," Layden said. "Our easy source of playing material—college football ranks—is gone for the duration. We're going to have to work to get players and prepare our teams for the schedule."

Study 1942 Reports

Layden made his often-repeated confident viewpoint clear to the league's executive committee when the five-man board gathered today for a convention-eve discussion of league conditions.

Meeting with the commissioner today were Harry Thayer of the Philadelphia Eagles, Bert Bell of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Fred Mandel of the Detroit Lions, and Lieut. Comm. George Halas of the Chicago Bears. This committee's purpose is to study reports on the 1942 season, including the financial sheet which is in excellent condition, and prepare ideas on future league policy for formal consideration by the entire body tomorrow.

There were only a few die-hards among the delegates who assembled tonight, and they for the most part were men whose clubs have been pretty well shattered by the military draft without sturdy replacements being in sight. They repeated the frequently-heard cry, "We don't see how the league can possibly operate next fall."

On the other side were Layden and a majority of club owners and coaches. Their attitude was that somewhere in the country there must be available the essential minimum of 220 players, comparatively free from draft calls for the next few months, and their purpose is to round up these men and have them in uniform by next September.

The college player draft, postponed at last fall's meeting and therefore the first item of old business due for consideration, may be postponed tomorrow until Thursday so the magnates and coaches may find out if it's even necessary to go through the motions, what with most of last summer's college graduates either in the service of headed rapidly for it.

The rules meeting will keep delegates busy tomorrow night attempting to put improvements into the game.

Church Dartball Tourney Will Be Resumed Tonight

The church dartball tournament will be resumed at the Central Methodist church tonight beginning at 7:30. Bethany and Presbyterians, both undefeated in play last week will meet in the first game tonight and St. Stephens and Central will tangle in the other second round game. Teams will decide tonight whether or not to play the third and concluding round of the tournament.

In the opening games last Tuesday, Bethany, last year's champions beat Central in two straight, 12-6 and 4-2, the last game going 13 innings. Presbyterians who entered the tournament as the underdogs, lived up to their rating in the first game by getting trounced by Ste. Stephens 11-9, won the second 12-9 and outlasted the Stephenites in a 14 inning, 12-11 grind which Reverend Barnard broke up with a triple scoring Joint who had previously gotten a single.

A check up on the records now show that Presbyterians will probably be the team to beat. They lead in team hitting with an average of 312 compared to Bethany 294, St. Stehens 278 and Central 245. A. Joint and Harold Peterson with 435 and 409 rank fourth and fifth in individual hitting, being outranked by G. Nelson of Bethany with 438, Tony Chapekis of St. Stephens with 455, and Joe Rouse, also of St. Stephens with 458. Although not in the first five, Oscar Gidlund of Central was that team's leading hitter.

MICHIGAN GRID COACHES SMILE

Spring Training Brings Out Record Crowd At Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 5. (AP) —That wasn't thunder out on the University of Michigan's Ferry Field this afternoon, that was the Wolverine coaches slapping the backs of 52 husky candidates to welcome—and brother, we mean welcome—them to spring practice.

Coach Fritz Crisler and his assistants blinked, grinned, and went to work. The turn-out may have been the largest to show up on the first day of practice at any college in the nation.

It wasn't quite football-as-usual, of course, but a stranger couldn't have detected the difference. While equipment man Hatch isn't quite sure he believes the attendance was larger than a year ago, and once the preliminaries were finished, the gridders started in on the familiar routine of passing, ball exchanging, blocking, and wind-sprints.

Julius Franks There

Freshmen constituted 32 of the total roster, one hint that the war is changing some things hereabouts. The cream of Wally Weber's yearling squad was back from last fall, including end Art Renner of Sturgis, Mich., guard Hank Mantho of Alliance, O., quarterback Bill Culligan of Detroit, fullback Ralph Chube of Ann Arbor and center Frank Kern of Detroit.

Among the distinguished veterans were guard Julius Franks, winner of many all-American honors last fall, and center Jim (Old Automatic) Brieske, the placekicker.

Perhaps 10 men were complete novices; had never played before and were out just for the exercise. Students are permitted to pick football as an alternative to their regular physical education classes.

Crisler's best backs were working out in the adjacent fieldhouse with the baseball team. In this ground are Capt. Paul White, fullback Bob Wiese and Don Lund, and halfback Dick Walterhouse.

But Prof. Fritz didn't care. He was pleased as punch with matters just as they stood.

Foreign Legion Most Famous Fighting Unit

BY ERNIE PYLE

Sidi-Bel-Abbes, Algeria—Here is the home of the renowned French Foreign Legion. Probably, over the years, the most famous fighting unit in the world.

The Legion comprises the only true mercenaries left in existence. They'll fight whomever their leaders tell them to; on either side with the same emotions.

Pyle

A Legionnaire lives with but one high goal—death on the battlefield. On the walls of one of the barracks is inscribed this message from a former commander: "You, Legionnaires, are soldiers made to die. I send you where you die." The message is looked upon with reverence, almost as holy.

Like a good many things in this world, the Legion isn't as romantic when you get close to it as it is from a distance. It does have a fine fighting history, no question of that. And life in the Legion is much more modern than most of us have thought.

And yet it is an empty life, by most standards. It is a bleak life. Men with fine minds, who for obscure reasons go into the ranks of the Legion, find that after a few years their minds have dwindled to a common denominator of mere existence.

They say that most Americans who have joined the Legion can't stick out their five-year enlistments. Before the war Americans and British could get out of the Legion with a little diplomatic pressure. When a German enlisted he was stuck for the five years, no matter how he hated it. But Germans don't hate it the way Americans and Englishmen do.

Legion Has 10,000 Men

The Legion consists of about 10,000 men. In this war it fought the Germans in France and in Norway. Its record, as usual, was superb. After the fall of France it withdrew to Algeria, its lifelong home. Last year it fought against the British in Syria—it doesn't make any difference to the Legion whom it fights.

Today the Legion is scattered. Some of its units are bottled up by the Japanese in French Indo-China. A few are fighting the Germans in Tunisia. The rest are spotted over North Africa, preparing for future battles. Fewer than 2,000 men are here at headquarters.

The morning the Americans landed in North Africa, the Legion started north on the 50-mile run to Oran to join the fighting. But they never arrived. Allied airplanes bombed and machine-gunned them along the highways, and they had to turn back.

Their burned-out trucks still lie along the roadside. Fortunately, there were almost no casualties. The Legionnaires feel badly that they didn't get to Oran in time. Not because they dislike Americans, but simply because they missed a fight.

Now the Legion is hand-in-glove with the Americans, and readying itself to join in the great fight on our side. The soldiers are impatient and itching to get going.

Shrine for Americans

Sidi-bel-Abbes has become practically a shrine for Americans over here. More than 400 American officers go through the Legion's home quarters every week. The Legion puts on parades for visiting American generals. American doughboys and Foreign Legion privates walk the streets together and sit in cafes, trying their best to talk to each other.

Discipline in the Legion is probably the strictest in the world. It isn't just a brutal discipline; it is what professionel soldiers point to admiringly as the absolute ideal in military precision of conduct.

There is no sloppniess of dress, no relaxing of respect. Soldiers salute an officer clear across the street. They salute officers sitting at tables 50 yards away. Neglect to salute costs a Legionnaire eight days in jail.

They even salute me too. They would even if they knew I was only a correspondent, for I'm in uniform and it's the uniform they salute.

There are still rough, murderous men in the Legion, but today many of them are high-type people who left their home countries for political reasons. Fifty-five nationalities are represented. There are only three Americans, and they are not here.

A large percentage of the Legion is now Spanish and German. Once we took over here, the question arose what to do with the German Legionnaires. That has been solved by sending them far to the south, with a detachment which will never come into contact with Axis troops, and will fight no World War battles.

The Germans have made excellent Legionnaires, but they became so numerous there has been some resentment against them among the French. In one kitchen I noticed a sign in French saying "French is spoken here." I asked the cook the significance of it. He said it got so that German was the predominant language around the kitchen, so he put up the sign to show there were some Frenchmen left.

In Memoriam

To the beautiful memory of our dearly beloved son and brother Ernest, who passed away four years ago today, April 6, 1939.

We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we loved the best;
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far off west;
We miss you no less as the time passes on
Than we did on the day of your going,
For absence can never close the door of our hearts
And the lamp of our love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the wide world;
Your love the best to recall;
For no one on earth could take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.

Sadly missed by his parents,
sisters and brothers,

MR. AND MRS. ALEX MATTONEN
AND FAMILY.

INLAND BOATS CLEAR HARBOR

First Ore Of Season Is Moved From Escanaba Docks

The Inland freighters, P. D. Block and L. E. Block, cleared the Escanaba harbor yesterday with the first cargoes of iron ore out from the upper lakes this season.

The P. D. Block was the first to clear. This vessel docked after the L. E. Block nosed into anchor Saturday night, but the cargo for the L. E. Block was not ready and the P. D. Block was loaded with 10,234 tons before the L. E. Block received its cargo of 13,800 tons.

The P. D. Block left the ore docks Saturday afternoon at four o'clock but because of ice conditions in the harbor and a heavy storm on the lakes, the vessel did not clear until yesterday. The L. E. Block completed its loading operations at 10:30 yesterday morning. The tug Roen aided the P. D. Block out of the harbor and the L. E. Block inched its way slowly through the ice later.

R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the Chicago and North Western Railway and Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company were aboard the P. D. Block on the Chicago to Escanaba trip. Mr. Randall said, after the vessel docked following a precarious trip through the ice, "Neither of our two ships was damaged in any way, but it certainly was tough and no one would think of putting a boat into that sort of ice except in wartime."

The tug Roen yesterday took the three members of the crew of the Minneapolis Shoals lighthouse to their station as well as a load of supplies. They are Tony Jessen, lighthouse keeper; Wm. O'Hearn, first assistant, and Peter Scott, second assistant.

The next two vessels expected to arrive here are the Frontenac and Presque Isle. They are scheduled to load here today. The L. E. Block also will return to Escanaba after it dumps its present cargo at Indiana Harbor.

Rapid River

Lions Meet

The Rapid River Lions held their bi-monthly dinner and meeting in the Aid rooms Thursday evening at 6:30. Dinner was served by the Congregational Ladies' Aid.

Mr. Garber, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce was the guest speaker of the evening. His subjest was the "Industrial" future of Delta County." Mr. Garber in the past few months has been making an industrial survey of Delta County and had many interesting facts to explain to the club.

At the next regular meeting which will be held April 15 the program will be arranged by George Muth. He told the club that he has invited Mr. Hasley, an engineer from Menominee, who has built many projects to speak to the club. He will talk on the "Au Train Canal Project" in which he is much interested. An invitation will be extended to the Lions of Gladstone and Escanaba to be present at the next meeting. After the meeting the men will have a smelting party as it is expected the smelt will be running in the local streams at that time.

James Larkins was a guest at the meeting.

Poultry Class Meeting

The recently organized Poultry Production Class met Tuesday evening at the Rapid River high school with Mr. Wylie instructor from the Escanaba schools. The topic discussed was the "Purchase of Baby Chicks" Next meeting will be on the "Care and Brooding of Baby Chicks."

The attendance at this class is very good. People from all over the county are attending. Six new members joined the class last Tuesday. Any persons interested in poultry raising are invited to join this class. Meetings will be held every Tuesday evening from 7-9 p. m. at the high school. Meetings will continue until all phases of poultry care have been discussed.

Boy Scout Regional Meeting

Wallace Cameron, Clair Armstrong and Joe Casimer went to Marquette Sunday to attend a Boy Scout regional meeting which took place at the Northland hotel. Mr. Cameron was song leader for the group. Speakers of national prominence were present. Delegations from Manistique, Escanaba, Gladstone and Rapid River were present.

Meets Former Instructor

Bill Cavell of the U. S. Navy met and visited with Kenn Hoyer also of the Armed forces in Los Angeles. Both are stationed in Los Angeles but Hoyer expects to be transferred to the east in the near future at which time he will try to stop over a day in Rapid River where he was an instructor in the R. R. high school up to the time of his entering the U. S. forces. He was the basketball coach while Bill was in high school.

Reelected

John J. Sharkey was reelected supervisor of Escanaba township in a hotly-contested election yesterday. The vote was: Sharkey, 167; Earl Paquin, 133.

SEEK RECRUITS FOR ENGINEERS

Construction Battalions Being Formed For Overseas Duty

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has launched a recruiting drive for skilled workers needed now for construction work overseas, it has been announced.

To qualify as a volunteer in this service, a man must have special qualifications in some line of engineering experience. Particularly needed are mechanics, blacksmiths, carpenters, draftsmen, crane operators, electricians, lathe operators, linemen, radiomen, well drillers, lumbermen and a long list of other craftsmen.

Volunteers are requested to contact the area engineers office at the Escanaba ore dock project, where they will be interviewed. Men who already have received a notice of induction from their draft board are not eligible to volunteer for this service.

All men accepted will be given a direct assignment to one of the four army engineer training replacement centers. The men will be enlisted as privates but they will have an excellent opportunity for ratings as non-commissioned officers and many of them will be selected for officer candidate schools.

Manistique, April 5—Leonard Carley, Inwood township supervisor, was reelected to that post in yesterday's election, defeating Dean Deloria, slip candidate, 110 to 32. It was one of three contests in townships in Schoolcraft county.

In Mueller township William Heminger won out for clerk, defeating Mrs. Wagner, a slip candidate. In the same township William Tennyson, incumbent, defeated Wells Bauers, slip candidate, for supervisor. Third township contest was in Manistique township, but no report on the contest for supervisor had been received last night.

On the state ticket, with 13 of the 14 precincts in Schoolcraft county reporting, the following unofficial returns were reported:

For Regent of the University—Bishop, (R) 563; McCoy, (D) 590; Hayward, (R) 562; Nugent, (D) 564.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction—Elliott, (R) 595; McFarland, (D) 585.

State Board of Education—Nisbet, (R) 573; Foley, (D) 567.

Board of Agriculture—Armstrong, (R) 558; Jewett, (D) 574; Jones, (R) 550; Carey, (D) 569.

Highway Commissioner—Zeigler, (R) 542; Reid, (D) 656.

Justice of the Supereme Court—Neil Reid, 307; McAvinchey, 178; Chandler, 327; Boyles, 266. (11 of 14 precincts reporting.)

Mrs. Ada Watson, Republican incumbent, was unopposed for re-election to the office of Schoolcraft county school commissioner.

Lions Hear Facts On Victory Course

How Escanaba high school students are preparing to take an active part in the conduct of the war was graphically outlined last night for members of the Escanaba Lions club in a report on the victory corps program now entering its second five-week period at the local school.

The speakers last night were Principal E. E. Edick and B. J. Henne of the high school faculty, together with 23 students, each covering a different phase of the victory corps course of study. The training is approved by the war department and the U. S. office of education.

Night grain-shocking parties by local business men and other town volunteers helped save the grain crop in Walworth County, Wis., last year, as many as 10 grain fields being cleaned up in a single night.
